Plane hijacker slain

DENVER (AP) — A gunman who held two hostages on a private airplane for seven hours was shot and killed by FBI agents early today as he boarded a jet he thought was to fly him to Mexico, an FBI spokesman said.

Ted Rosack, special agent in charge of the Denver FBI office, said Roger Lyle Lentz, 31, was killed shortly after midnight, ending an episode that began in Grand Island, Neb., and included two separate flights over Colorado aboard the commandeered private plane.

Neither hostage — pilot Robert Blair and mechanic Harlan Hiller, both of Grand Island — was hurt during the seven hours they spent in the Piper Navaho with the gunman or in the gunfire aboard the commercial jet, Rosack said.

"The subject came up the ramp with his hostages, ducked into the galley, and when agents aboard the plane properly identified him, was shot," Rosack said. "One of the agents said he believed the subject fired one shot, but we're still investigating that."

The shooting was aboard a Convair 990, a four-engine jet owned by Ports of Call Travel Club, a local airline. It was the second jet prepared for Lentz, who earlier rejected a DC8 trainer owned by United Airlines for the flight he demanded to Mexico.

Rosack said Lentz, who faced charges at home including vehicular homicide and larceny, was involved in gunfight earlier Sunday with authorities in Grand Island.

He went to the Grand Island airport, carried a .22-caliber revolver and a .410 shotgun aboard the Navaho and ordered Blair to take off, Rosack said.

He said Hiller was in the airplane because he had just finished servicing it for flight.

After arriving at Denver's Stapleton International Airport, the plane sat on a runway while FBI agents tried to talk Lentz into surrendering, Rosack said. He demanded a Boeing 747, then a Boeing 737, then any type of commercial aircraft to fly him to Mexico, Rosack said

The FBI agent said the plane took on fuel after 31/2 hours on the ground, then inexplicably took off, circled the airport for about a half-hour and landed. It was refueled and took off again.

During the second flight, Blair got clearance to land at Casper, Wyo., about 250 miles north of Denver, but just north of Greeley, Colo., 50 miles north of Denver, the plane turned back and returned to Stapleton

Rosack said it was uncertain why

MIAMI (AP) neighbors say Dr. Alfred Nadler, who is white, has served them for 28 years in the best spirit of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. Now he is to be evicted to make room for a park honoring the slain civil rights leader.

But the 63-year-old doctor is resisting and is being supported by some residents predominantly black Liberty City community. A number have even named their children after the

"Others refused to come in here," he said. "I didn't want a Park Avenue practice, and here I have people who appreciate me, thank God.'

City officials have told him the land his office occupies is needed for a park, part of a project honoring the late civil rights leader. The project calls for widened roadways and open green spaces in the ghetto area that planners hope will attract industry, cultural and entertainment spots, retail stores and offices.

NEIGHBORHOOD RESID-ENTS feel the project is important but so is the doctor.

Some other area residents say he makes house calls whenever necessary, and often treats people who have no money.

LOCAL OFFICIALS have tried to relocate Nadler, but he has rejected various suggestions. Nadler said one site was next door to a pool hall and bar, and another was too far away for his elderly patients.

Israel Milton, director of one agency involved in the project, said Nadler was procrastinating and if the doctor doesn't decide on a new location soon, "I'll pull all the facts together and go to the city attorney to advise him to move on this thing.' Nadler said he is determined to stay in the immediate area.

Columbus woman drowns in creek

MOUNT STERLING -Sunday was marred by the drowning of a 33-year-old Columbus woman.

Mrs. Mary A. Graham, 33, of Columbus, drown at approximately 4:15 a.m. Sunday in Deer Creek, a half mile south of Mount Sterling.

The victim was wading with a friend, Mrs. Mabel Cundiff, near the bridge on Ohio 56 when the incident occurred.

According to the statement given to Madison County sheriff's deputies by Mrs. Cundiff, the two had left a small group of friends near the creek. Mrs. Graham was wading while Mrs. Cundiff was floating nearby.

The victim reportedly stepped into a hole along the creek bottom grabbing Mrs. Cunditt's leg as Mrs. Cundiff stated that she held the victim as long as she could while shouting for help.

Bills face death in Assembly

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Bills that haven't cleared at least one chamber probably will get lost in the shuffle as the legislature begins on Tuesday a two-week drive to bring the current session to a close.

Floor sessions and committee activity both will reflect what has become a traditional policy giving emphasis to bills near passage in the closing days. There probably will be some exceptions, as members with long stalled measures begin "horse trading" among themselves.

On Tuesday, the House returns from a week-long Easter break to consider Senate amendments to five measures. They will go to the governor if the amendments are approved. The lower chamber votes the same day on four bills that originated in the Senate.

Similarly, senators return for a flood session that calls for votes on five House measures. Committee sessions follow the same pattern, with House panels looking at a total of 25 Senate bills Tuesday through Thursday compared to 13 of their own. Of 55 measures to be heard in the Senate, 40 originated in the House

Three major bills are among those in the House awaiting action on Senate amendments. One requires statewide

The measure assertedly would delete from most residential bills a $1 surcharge applied last winter with the purchase of emergency supplies for

Floor votes are scheduled Tuesday in the House that would virtually complete passage of other Senate measures that provide identification cards for nondriving senior and handicapped citizens, and to permit counties to license electrical, heating, and air conditioning contractors.

Approval for use as landfill expected this summer

County commissioners contract to farm newly-acquired land

By GEORGE MALEK

The Fayette County Board of Commissioners have contracted with Donald Denen to farm more than 100 acres of land purchased near the Washington C.H. Industrial Park

The land, which was purchased by the commissioners for $233,172 March 23 at the auction of the late Edna Hamm's estate, will be used by the county as a new landfill.

The portion of the land which is not immediately used for landfill will be farmed by Denen and the profits divided between Denen and the county. Denen currently operates the Fayette County farm on the CCC Highway-E where he resides.

The commissioners said the two parties will share the operating expenses with Denen supplying the necessary machinery. This is the same arrangement under which the 450-acre county farm is maintained.

Approval of the new site by the Fayette County Health Department and the Ohio Environmental la constantina de la constantina del constantina de la constantina de la constantina de la constantina del constantina de la constantina de la constantina del constantin

Actual use of the site as a landfill is expected to begin in six months to one year.

Farming will continue while the land is serving as a landfill. It will require only three to five acres per year for the landfill operation. FINANCING the purchase will come largely from federal revenue sharing monies. The $23,317 down payment on the land came from existing revenue sharing funds. The commissioners expect too borrow $160,000 on a five-year note which they expect to eventually bond. If revenue sharing is continued, a question which is currently being debated in Congress, the greatest percentage of the money to repay the loan will also come from revenue sharing in the coming years. In addition to the down payment and loan, there will be an outstanding balance of nearly $50,000. The commissioners have not yet decided what monies will be used to pay this portion of the cost Likely sources are revenue sharing, the county farm account, and the road maintenance and repair fund. The latter is being considered because the 137-acre tract is to eventually house the county highway department facilities.

The commissioners stressed that the purchase was prompted solely by the need for a new landfill site. Estimates of the useful life of the current landfill area near Jeffersonville range from four to eight months. The commissioners also stressed that they have no intention of seeking a special tax levy to fund the purchase. Sufficient funds to cover the cost should be available from current sources, they said. Estimates of the revenue which might be obtained from farming the available land were in the neighborhood of $5,000 per year. In addition, the commissioners said they have been approached concerning lease of some portions which would serve as pasture land, but are not tillable. Use of the tract as a landfill should not diminish its value, they said. If the land is properly attended during the landfill operation, it should be able to accommodate a variety of uses afterward. At least 18 inches of topsoil must cover the ground when the fill area is restored. Improved grading will likely enhance the value, the commissioners added. OTHER MATTERS discussed by the commissioners Monday included a joint meeting of the board and the Fayette County Township Trustees Association which will be held Wednesday night.

The meeting has been called by county engineer Charles P. Wagner, who may hold such a joint meeting once each year

The commissioners are also scheduled to attend a Business and Professional Women's banquet Tuesday night. The BPW sponsors a "bosses night" annually, and the commissioners have been invited as guests of their clerk Mrs. Janet Pope.

The commissioners will also meet Monday with John Woodmansee, operator of the Fayette County Airport, to discuss the future of the airport facility, and its role in the economy of the county

Bids on the Mount Ebert ditch project and the new bookkeeping machine for the county auditor's office are to be received today, and awarding of contracts is expected Monday afternoon.

Fighting drops off in Lebanon

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) - Fighting dropped off sharply in the Lebanese civil war today as Syrian officers called in Lebanese leaders to try to arrange enforcement of another ceasefire.

"Let's hope for the best," said "The Premier Rashid Karami. security situation all over Lebanon is, relatively speaking, much, much better

the warring leftist Leaders of Moslems and right-wing Christians Saturday night accepted a Syrian proposal for mixed patrols of Palestinian guerrillas and militiamen to restore order under the supervision of a truce committee made up of representatives of the two Lebanese sides and of Yasir Arafat's Palestine Liberation Organization.

Sources in Damascus, the Syrian capital, said Syrian President Hafez Assad also plans to put Syrian soldiers on patrol with the Palestinians and Lebanese if necessary to enforce the truce. Assad has an estimated 6,000 Syrian troops in frontier areas in eastern and northern Lebanon, and he controls 7,000 men of the Saiga Palestinian guerrilla organization.

Col. Aly Madani, head of the Syrian military police, and Col. Mohamed Khouly, the Syrian air force intelligence chief, came from Damascus and met with Karami, Palestinian security chief Abu Hassan and other

Lebanese chieftains at Karami's home. Former President Camille Chamoun, leader of the second-largest Christian militia, refused to attend, saying Karami's home was not a safe meeting place. But his son denied a report that Chamoun and his National Liberal party rejected the new Syrian peace plan. The son said Chamoun accepted the plan in general but objected to a provision rejecting any international (meaning American) or pan-Arab (meaning Egyptian) participation in the peacemaking.

Assad is determined to use the yearlong Lebanese war to make Syria the predominant influence in Lebanon.

Chamoun's opposition to this is shared by the leader of the leftist Moslem forces. Druze chieftain Kamal Jumblatt. He was forced to accept the Syrian plan, however, after Arafat threatened to withdraw the support of his guerrillas from him.

Political maneuvering continued in preparation for a meeting of Parliament to elect another Christian to replace Franjieh. The election meeting is expected within a week or two. The leading contenders are Raymond Edde, 63, head of the National Bloc party, and Elias Sarkis, 50, governor of the central bank.

announced Premier Karami Saturday that Franjieh had signed the constitutional amendment adopted by Parliament a week earlier to end the president's term early and authorize the election of his successor

Revival of draft machinery proposed

WASHINGTON (AP) - A government commission says the United States could cut $3 billion to $4 billion annually from its defense budget by overhauling procedures for military pay, promotion, retirement and other personnel costs.

The Defense Manpower Commission proposed scrapping the current retirement system, which allows all members of the armed services to retire at half-pay after 20 years. It suggested a 30-year minimum, except for men serving in combat units, who would still be eligible to retire after 20

The seven-member citizens' commission, which was appointed by Congress, spent two years and $2.4 million assaying America's military manpower needs

In a 518-page report issued Sunday, the panel also said the United States will have to keep its forces at the current level of 2.1 million regulars and 890,000 reservists for the next decade. But the commission charged that the reserves and the National Guard are a weak link behind the nation's all-volunteer force. In case of war, many reservists and the Guard would be needed overseas in 60 to 90 days, but would not be ready for 120 to 160 days, the panel found.

strategists believe Defense American reserve forces would be needed promptly in Europe if the Soviet Union attacked the NATO countries.

The National Guard should be considered a replacement pool for the Army in the early stages of a war, rather than filling the traditional Guard role of going to battle in division strength, the panel said.

The commission, headed by former Selective Service Director Curtis W. Tarr, recommended reviving a standby draft that would require all young men to register upon their 18th birthday. A standy system would allow the government to induct men within 30 days of a mobilization order, the panel said. Without a standby draft, it would take four months to induct men in an emergency, Tarr estimated.

The commission noted "with grave concern that recent administrative actions have already emasculated any semblance of a viable standby selective service system.

The United States abolished the draft in 1973. It decided three months ago that 18 year-old-old men would no longer be required to register, and most of the Selective Service machinery has been dismantled and its 1,700 workers shifted.

The commission said the economic climate will determine whether the allvolunteer force draws sufficient recruits over the next 10 years.

If the economy booms, "the supply of recruits will probably not be large enough," the panel found. Pay raises, more enlistment bonuses and increased enrollment of women could be used to avert "a major recruiting shortfall," the commission said, adding that military pay and benefits must be kept competitive with civilian scales.

Arguments heard on trial coverage

WASHINGTON (AP) - "We do not have spacious profits with which to defend ourselves and our principles, all the way to the Supreme Court, each and every time we feel them to be under attack.... But I am confident that the court will listen to us because we represent the most defenseless among the petitioners."

With these words, H. Brandt Ayers, editor and publisher of the Anniston, Ala., Star, pleaded the cause of the nation's small daily newspapers in a free press-fair trial case which the high court hears arguments on today.

Ayers' letter is quoted in a brief submitted to the court on behalf of news organizations ranging from the Anniston Star, which has a circulation of 28,000, to the major television net-

The case, which arose out of a Nebraska mäss murder, involves conflicting views about the effect of news coverage on the impartiality of potential jurors in criminal cases and the rights of defendants.

It is the first time the court has held a full-scale hearing on the relationship between the free press guarantee of the First Amendment to the Constitution and the fair trial guarantee of the Sixth Amendment. A decision is expected by June.

District Judge Hugh Stuart of North Platte, Neb., touched off the dispute by restricting pretrial news coverage last October of the case of Erwin Charles Simants, 29, charged with killing six members of a Sutherland, Neb., family

With some modifications made by the Nebraska Supreme Court, restrictions remained in effect until a jury was selected Jan. 8 for Simants' trial. He was convicted of first-degree murder and has been sentenced to die in the electric chair.

In attacking the judge's order, the news media organizations rely heavily that should never have been declared, upon a ruling of the U.S. Supreme Court and can still be avoided."

last June that exposure of jurors to news accounts of a crime does not in itself make a fair trial impossible.

The attorneys for the news organizations told the court in a brief last week that the case is vital to "the right of the press rather than government to decide what news the American people will receive.'

Ayers, in his letter to attorneys for news media organizations, said such restrictions would be felt most severely in small towns.

'Our papers are not read in the White House, the Congress, the Supreme Court or by network news executives, he said. "We have no in-house staff. We retain no great, national law firms.

"Our only alternative is obedient silence. You hear us when we speak now. Who will notice if we are silenced? The small town press will be the un-First and Sixth amendments, a war

Nostalgia on side of Humphrey

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Hubert Democratic primaries, H. Humphrey has nostalgia on his side his "noncandidacy" for the Democratic presidential nomination, pollster Louis Harris contends.

'There is a great kind of nostalgia about Hubert Humphrey. It is the best way you can explain his candidacy, Harris said on ABC's "Issues and Answers" program Sunday.

"He has become kind of the elder statesman in the Democratic party," said Harris, who added that Humphrey's image fit "the New Deal pork chop, pork barrel approach to politics."

The Minnesota senator is not running in the primaries, but he has said he would accept a draft at the Democratic convention in July.

Easter Sunday found noncandidates and candidates alike keeping a low profile. Most spent the day at home with their families. Jimmy Carter, the leader in the early attended church in his hometown of Plains, Ga., then opened a new campaign headquarters there. Carter promised a victory in the April 27 Pennsylvania primary, telling 400 followers, "I don't intend to lose. "We've got all the political big shots against us. But this is nothing new." Carter has stops in Atlanta, Alexandria, La., and New Orleans today before flying to Houston for an overnight stay.

Rivals Sen. Henry Jackson of Washington and Rep. Morris K. Udall of Arizona spent Easter with their families in the Washington area. Udall later flew to Phoenix, where he planned several appearances today.

Sen. Frank Church, the latest entrant in the Democratic race, spent Sunday at his Boise home and was in Montana today prior to stumping through

On the Republican front, former California Gov. Ronald Reagan spent Easter in Los Angeles and had no campaign activities planned today. He hits the trail again Tuesday with a trip to Alabama and Georgia.

President Ford relaxed at Camp David over the weekend and planned to stay in the capital until Thursday, when he starts a two-day campaign swing through Indiana and Georgia, which both have May 4 primaries.

His wife, Betty, was scheduled to leave today for four days of political appearances in Texas, which also has a May 1 primary. To help get her political message across, Mrs. Ford was taking along a portable citizens band car radio — a gift from daughter Susan. Former Texas Gov. John Connally, who has resisted overtures to endorse either Reagan or Ford, was to be honored at a GOP fund-raising dinner in Austin tonight.

Brighter economic outlook reported

WASHINGTON (AP) - The volume of the nation's total economic output jumped 2.5 per cent during the three months ending in March and moved to within a whisker of its prerecession peak, the government said today.

The Commerce Department said the volume of the nation's Gross National Product (GNP) climbed at an annual rate of 7.5 per cent for the quarter, compared to a 5 per cent growth rate during the previous quarter.

trillion - 19.4 per cent ahead of peak output during the final quarter of 1973. But inflation cut the quarter's volume of goods and services to two-tenths of a per cent below the 1973 peak.

Gross National Product represents the total output of goods and services in the nation's economy and is the broadest gauge of the nation's economic performance.

The quarter's increase is within the range expected by Commerce Secretary Elliot L. Richardson and others, but at the high end of the range. The figures for the quarter are preliminary and subject to revision.

Richardson had said he expected the rate of growth for the first three months of the year to be higher than for the previous three months.

But Richardson noted in an article in 'Commerce America," his department's monthly magazine, that the GNP, after adjustment for inflation, would have to grow by 8.5 per cent to retain the prerecession peak. 'It is unlikely that output increased that rapidly in the first quarter, and therefore it will be the second quarter figures should show a net increase in business inventories this time and "as final sales continue to rise, inventory accumulation should gain momentum during the remainder of the year.

Richardson said the new GNP figures and other economic indicators coming out of the government should prompt a favorable revision of the administration's initial economic expectations this year.

The latest 7.5 per cent unemployment rate, for example, is already below the 7.7 per cent initially expected to be the average unemployment rate for the

Wave discharge now not allowed

KEY WEST, Fla. (AP) - Kathleen A. Clark said no when the Navy offered to discharge her after she became pregnant 20 months ago. She's changed her mind, but now the Navy is saying no to her application for discharge.

Mrs. Clark said she realized she had been wrong to think she could raise her baby and at the same time continue working as a Wave at the Key West Naval Air Station.

Her commanding officer agreed to her new request for discharge, and her psychiatrist, social worker and pediatrician all added their opinions that leaving the Navy would be a good thing for her.

But the Navy's top brass has turned her down, despite her pleas that she has an infant in need of care.

Firefighters stage Columbus walkout

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) - Half the city's firefighters failed to report to work today in an apparent protest over lack of settlement of a wage dispute.

Mayor Tom Moody at a news conference urged citizens to exert "extreme caution" after 121 of 230 firefighters on the day shift called in

Moody said the department was being staffed by men held over from the previous shift. But the mayor said he was unsure how long that situation could continue. 'Our resources will be severely taxed and we must call on all citizens to go overboard," the mayor said. "It is important that every citizen exert extreme caution.

Safety Director Bernard Chupka said city officials are discussing the possibility of legal action against the firefighters.

The job action comes after firemen voted Saturday 367-162 to reject a $4 million pay offer by the city.

The firemen originally were seeking an immediate 13 per cent pay increase. The city's pay package would have given them an immediate 6 per cent increase, 4 per cent boost in December, 3 per cent in June 1977 and 5 per cent in December 1977.

The package also included fringe benefits, such as dental insurance and emergency medical care.

Contracts with city fireman and policeman expired Dec. 28. The policeman staged a stepped up ticketing campaign earlier this month and came to a contract agreement with pay parity with police officers. Policemen voted a week ago to accept the same city wage proposal. However, Roy Morello, president of the International Association of Fire Fighters Local 67, said firemen rejected the pact because it did not decrease the firefighters' workweek or increase their vacation time.

The firefighters took no job action at that time, although they had discussed

The fire department consists of 627 firefighters, 107 lieutenants, 32 captains, 24 batalion chiefs and six assistant chiefs.

Present salaries on the contract that expired Dec. 28 range from $9,089 for starting officers to $13,707 after 21/2 years of service. Michael Gable, city finance director, has pointed out that the city cannot afford substantial pay increases, having laid off more than 200 workers in the past year because of budget

Vaccine volunteers ready for tests

ATLANTA (AP) - Scientists at the Center for Disease Control say federal employes and Texas prison inmates who will be given the first inoculations of swine flu vaccine starting this week are in no danger of contracting the disease because the vaccine contains a dead virus.

The vaccine was developed to combat an anticipated outbreak of swine flu in the United States this year after the strain surfaced in January at Ft. Dix, N.J.

Scientists suspect that a swine-type flu similar to the anticipated strain may have caused a world-wide epidemic in 1918-19.

Dr. Michael Gregg, director of viral diseases for the Center for Disease Control, said that when a live virus, such as that for immunization against polio, is used in a vaccine, "there is a remote chance" that inoculated may show symptoms

'But the new swine flu vaccine will be a dead virus," Gregg said in an interview. To produce a dead virus vaccine, scientists mix the chemical "formalin" react with the chemical, yielding a vaccine that will stimulate the production of protective antibodies in recipients without reproducing the disease.

Officials of the Food and Drug Administration in Washington said the agency has received 24,000 vials of the vaccine in three dosage strengths from four drug companies. An appropriations bill that President

Ford signed Thursday includes $135 million for enough vaccine to immunize the entire population of the United States — about 213 million persons. Employes of the FDA and the National Institutes of Health have volunteered to be inoculated this week They will be monitored to determine which of the three dosage strengths is the most effective and has the fewest undesirable side effects, officials said. Dr. Robert Couch, head of Baylor College of Medicine's Influenza Research Center in Houston, said inoculations will be administered next

Stock list moves up

NEW YORK (AP) - Stock prices pushed higher in active trading early today as investors returned from a long Easter weekend.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks was up a fraction at the opening and New York Stock Exchange issues advancing in price led those declining by about 2-1

At the start of trading, the Commerce Department announced in Washington that the nation's gross national product grew 7.5 per cent in the first quarter, after adjusting for inflation.

It was the fourth straight quarterly rise for the economic indicator.

The Commerce Department also reported that the GNP price deflator, a broad gauge of inflation, rose only 3.7 per cent in the first quarter, compared with a 6.8 per cent jump in the fourth quarter of 1975.

Early prices American Telephone & Telegraph, off 18 at 5514; General Motors, down 18 to 701/s; and Exxon Corp., up 3/8 at 927/8.

On Thursday, before the market closed for an extended Easter weekend, the Dow Jones industrial average rose 5.83 to 980.48, putting its gain for the week at 12.20 points.

There appears to be a lot of each, with 25,000 vacationing students packing the Fort Lauderdale beach

Kings Island unable to count baboons

Tuesday Night is

KINGS MILLS, Ohio (AP) - Officials at Kings Island Amusement Park have discovered to their chagrin that all the baboons they see are not the number of baboons they've got.

'We kept getting different counts. First we'd get 47, then 53, but we just assumed we had the whole troop until we started getting the phone calls, lamented Dan Aylward, the park's, advertising manager.

The park discovered Saturday that one of the 50 baboons which had escaped from their compound last week had wandered outside the park, while the other 49 remained in the same area they've occupied since gaining their freedom.

The animals spent the day Sunday moving back and forth between their old compound and a stand of trees about 100 feet away

They spent their time playing, lazing in the warm sun and gorging themselves on fruit, much of which had been tranquilized in an attempt to bring them back into the compound.

Park officials said they hoped to have the baboons back in their compound within 24 hours as soon as they finished construction of an electrical fence to keep the baboons in the compound.

Park officials meanwhile were asking local residents to help them find the baboon which got away.

'We think be's trying to make it back to the troop, but that our personnel who are watching the baboons may be preventing him from reaching the others," said Aylward, who said that the first reports of the runaway baboons were received Saturday

"It's really hard to count baboons because they look alike and they are always moving," he concluded. "You count one and then another will come out to play and you'll count the first one again by accident.

'It would be simple if they would go single file, but that just isn't the way these animals operate.

When cattle prices were depressed in relation to feed costs in 1974-75, feedlots reduced inventories sharply. Thus, since most of the imported cattle from Mexico and Canada are "feeder" types, the feedlot demand for animals

Legacy of Howard Hughes

The late Howard Hughes was a man whose highly publicized eccentricities tended to obscure his very considerable achievements. His fanatically reclusive lifestyle and the enormous wealth that made it possible dominated popular interest in him over the past 20-odd years. Yet his genuine contributions, notably as an aviation pioneer but also in motion pictures and electronics, will be a lasting memorial to this unusual man.

Hughes' love affair with flying and aircraft development began early. He built airplanes and flew them and once brusquely told an aide who objected to the risk: "I do my own

He was good at it. in his 20swhen he had already begun the parlaying of an inherited fortune which ultimately made him a billionaire - he broke numerous aviation records. He set a world speed record of 352 miles an hour in 1935, flew around the world in four days in 1938. Eight years later. testing his XF-11 experimental photographic plane, he crashed and barely escaped death.

Hughes also is known for his early career as a trailbreaking movie producer. His great success was "Hell's Angels," which cost four million dollars to make. But in some ways the controversial film. "The Outlaw," had broader significance; his successful censorship fight, as someone later observed, "broke the way for other producers to bring out forthright films dealing with important themes.

Howard Hughes was an unpredictable man of extraordinary ability - above all, perhaps, a financial genius. That genius was applied to many daring, innovative enterprises. He lived as he chose. During the last quarter century of an eventful life he chose to live as a virtual hermit. Only death was strong enough to break down the walls that had hidden him from the decision has been taken and with the large clutch of delegates Michigan will an important state for the Democratic contestants.

And the big issue that they will have to congront here is unemployment. Henry Ford II admitted in an interview in The Detroit News that this will be a 10-million-plus car year, not the scacely more than 9.5 million he had earlier predicted.

But this upsurge in the auto industry has touched "the Motor Town" little, if at all. One reason, of course, is that the industry — with the exception of Chrysler — is widely dispesed in other parts of the country and what was once the center of the machine that tran-sformed the world is today no more than a symbol.

The unemployment rate here is put today at 20 per cent. But there is good reason to believe that, as with nationwide unemployment figures, this is a gross underestimate. Persons who should know put the unemployment rate in the city's black ghetto at 40 per cent or more. And this includes not only youths but individuals of all ages.

Here is the fundamental contradiction of this strange election year. All the economic indicators are slowly rising. The employed, the affluent, are buying new cars and, in a larger proporition, bigger cars. At the same time, the great mass of the unemployed remains little changed. The total of 8 million, more or less, does not include those who have long since given up looking for jobs. They are, as soneone has well put it, the invisible men and women who have been screened off from view by the affluent majority.

This is what the candidates will confront in acute form: the fundamental contradiction between the well-off who fear more inflation and the jobless who believe the government must by the employer of last resort.

Busing was the big issue in 1972 and it gave George Wallace the state. Much of his strength came from the men on the assembly line and in the auto parts plant around Michigan.

While the United Auto Workers UAW men liked Wallace's denunciation of pointy-headed intellectuals who were running Washington.

A knowledgable guess is that much of the Wallace strength will go this time to Jimmy Carter. He is a moderate Southerner and that background appeals to men and women who came out of the South in the great rush of the war Moreover Carter has shown the appeal he has for the blacks.

As Morris Udall has discovered, full employment with jobs created by the government has only slight pulling power. It should work in this state where the UAW is out after a new contract with greatly increased fringe benefits and the Teamsters won hefty wage boosts after a short strike

But gains by labor raise the bogey of inflation and this scares off the conservatives and moderates. The comfortable assumption of well-off Detroiters is that the built-in cushions unemployment insurance and welfare will work against violence.

In July 1967, large sections of the city were burned and much of this burnt-out area has not been rebuilt. The experience was shattering not only to the city itself but to the outlying suburbs to which a large portion of whites had

The cushions may work even as large numbers go off unemployment insurance and pensions from industry and go on welfare but the transition is not any easy one and it seems to relegate the individual to a permanent status outside the system.

Those with some knowledge believe the coming summer will be a severe test for the patience of the dispossessed trying to make a welfare check cover the cost of living which is still high with food prices likely to continue to rise.

This is a state with as many variations as any in the union. Detroit's city center is as remote from the upper peninsula as though they were on different planets. The presidential candidates here face a truly formidable task

Student regulations set

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Between now and next fall, boards of education throughout Ohio are being required to draw up specific codes of conduct outlining reasons for which students can be removed, suspended, or ex-

The requirement came down from the legislature this year after the U.S. Supreme Court ruled that students, just like everyone else, are entitled to due process-specifically the right to some kind of formal hearing before being disciplined.

Rep. Sam Speck, R-95 New Concord, guided the bill through the legislative process during a period of more than 13 months, finally emerging with a compromise measure with broad support from the interested parties.

Signed by Gov. James A. Rhodes last March, it becomes part of Ohio's statutes June 4, but school boards are being given until the first of September to adopt their conduct codes.

The Ohio Association of Secondary School Principals-high schools are likely to be most affected by the new law-has advised its members of the procedural requirements that are mandated for each of the three types of disciplinary actions. These include:

-Suspensions: Only a principal or superintendent may suspend. The maximum suspension is 10 days. They

-Removals: A superintendent, principal, or assistant principal may, if a student's presence poses "a continuing danger" to persons or property, remove a student from the premises, curricular, or extracurricular activity.

A teacher has the right of emergency removals from his or her classroom, but must immediately notify the principal of reasons for doing so. A due process hearing on removals must occur within 24 hours, and persons who requested or ordered the removal must be present. In an emergency removal, a pupil can be kept from class until the matter is disposed of either by reinstatement, suspension, or expulsion. -Expulsion: The right to expel is left solely in the hands of superintendents. The same prior notice and hearings are required, except that hearing must be no less than three days and no more than five days after notice is given.

Parents or guardians must be advised in writing of the reasons for expulsion, advised of their right to appeal to the board of education, and given a closed hearing if requested.

Unhappy consumers making voices heard

EDITOR'S NOTE-Got a gripe? Now more than ever, there is someone out there willing to listen. As more Americans speak up for their rights, more government departments and private buinesses have learned that the complaining consumer has a loud

By LOUISE COOK

Associated Press Writer Fed up with products that don't produce and services that don't serve, Americans have learned that it pays to

No one keeps statistics on the number of complaints received by private industry and government agencies. It would be impossible because there are so many overlapping departments, bureaus and offices and the number is growing steadily.

Five years ago, for example, there were nine consumer agencies at the state level, according to the Office of Consumer Affairs of the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare. Today there are 135.

Dorothy Burkhardt who heads the complaint division of the federal consumer affairs unit said her office alone received almost 27,000 complaints in the first 11 months of 1975, compared to 24,000 complaints in all of 1974. A 1975 study by the Office of Consumer Affairs showed that 15 federal agencies - a relatively small section of Washington's bureaucracy spent $6.4 million annually answering complaints.

There are signs on all sides that consumers are more aware of their rights and less hesitant about demanding them. The same person who would have shrugged and said "chalk it up to experience," when confronted with a faulty product five years ago, is writing to the company president today.

"People are more ready to complain to all institutions," said E. Patrick McGuire, senior research analyst at the Conference Board, a New Yorkbased nonprofit business group.

"They expect more of products and services ... They are more cynical of companies' attempts to redress their grievances.

Robert Sable, an attorney with the National Consumer Law Center in Boston, said: "There is substantially more consumer litigation," partly because consumers have more legal rights than they used to. "There is a whole host of new consumer laws," he said, citing legislation involving interest rates, warranties and credit. "Ten years ago, there wasn't a whole lot an aggrieved consumer could do except make a stink.'

No one knows just when Americans started thinking of themselves as "consumers." The late President John Kennedy set up a Consumer Advisory Council in 1963 and listed four basic consumer rights: the right to be heard, the right to a choice, the right to be protected against unsafe products and the right to a response to a legitimate complaint. Many people believe the real consumer drive started in 1966 with Ralph Nader and his book, "Unsafe at Any Speed." Nader's disclosure, at a Senate hearing, that General Motors Corp. had private detectives investigate him safety record of the Corvair, drew wide publicity and called attention to consumerism as a cause.

By 1971, "Nader's Raiders," as his followers were dubbed, had formed groups to study - and change - laws and regulations on everything from food additives to pollution controls. Today, Nader's organizations in Washington and Nader-spawned public interest research groups - PIRGS across the country are involved in just about every facet of American life.

The individual citizen who wants to complain has more outlets for his anger. There are almost 50 complaint agencies for federal departments and more than 225 county and city consumer offices.

The government publishes a 39-page "Guide to Federal Consumer Services," with information on where to go with questions and complaints about everything from advertising to work regulations. The booklet is available free of charge from Consumer Information Center, Dept. 6, Pueblo, Colo.,

On the business front, some 500 companies have consumer affairs units. The Better Business Bureau as expanded its complaint-handling mechanism, introducing an arbitration program that has grown from three cities in 1971 to about 100 today. And volunteer groups and news media "action line" programs are ready to tackle local problems.

McGuire said the surge in complaints "began long before the recession" that prompted concern over money. "It began when people learned there's a response

Previously, he said, the East and West coasts were "the most fertile field

Estonia, officially the Estonian Soviet Socialist Republic, is one of 15 major administrative divisions of the Soviet Union. It covers an area of 17,410 square miles and its population in 1970 was 1,410,000. Its capital and largest city is Tallinn.

for complaints." In between was "a desert - or an oasis," depending on your viewpoint.

McGuire said that Middle America has joined the complaint parade. "It is no longer considered ill-mannered or unpleasant." People boast of their victories at cocktail parties.

Complaints still are most prevalent among the middle and upper-middle income groups, McGuire said. These are the people who have the knowledge. the time and the determination to

'It hasn't trickled down to the ghetto he said. "When it does, you'll have an avalanche of complaints' because there are so many people in-

The typical complainant on a nationwide basis, McGuire said, has two or more years of college, is over 30, is more likely to be WASP than ethnic" and is in a managerial or semiprofessional job

If the item involved cost less than $100 - food, clothing or small appliances - the complainant is likely to be a woman, McGuire said. If it cost more than $100, the complainant is probably a man.

Consumer agencies say they are solving more problems than ever

The Office of Consumer Protection of the Wisconsin Department of Justice received 5,780 complaints in 1971 and recovered about $214,000 for consumers in court judgments and informal set-

Last year, the office received 14,678 complaints and recovered almost $675,000, an increase of about 154 per cent in the number of complaints and 215 per cent in the amount of money recovered.

Bob Tuttle, statistician for the National Council of Better Business Bureaus, said local groups received over 6¹2 million calls of all types last year. Thirteen per cent were complaints. The rest of the callers wanted information only.

The bureaus get two kinds of complaints: formal protests that are followed up and informal gripes on which no action is taken. The number of overall complaints increased steadily in the late 1960s and early 1970's, from 324,000 in 1966 to almost 1.5 million in

The trend was reversed in 1974 and by 1975 the number of complaints formal and informal - was down to 846,000.

The decline does not necessarily mean that people are complaining less, although Tuttle said he hoped it indicated greater customer satisfaction. Other factors causing the decrease include the sales slump of 1975, Tuttle said. People bought less and therefore had fewer new products to complain about plaint outlets also contributes to a drop in the number of complaints received by any one agency.

What are people complaining about? The Office of Consumer Affairs, in a report on complaints to state and local agencies, said automobiles are the most common focus of dissatisfaction. Automobile gripes accounted for 18 per cent of all complaints in 1974. Home repairs were the second most common area of dissatisfaction, representing 11 per cent of all complaints in 1974.

The Better Business Bureaus statistics showed mail order businesses accounted for 15.3 per cent of all complaints in 1975. Automobiles were second with 5.9 per cent of all com-

12th Cancer Smorgasbord slated for Thursday night

There will be free food, entertainment and no admission charge. The public is invited without charge to enjoy the evening and select from the dozens of homemade desserts, some low-calorie for weight-watchers. prepared by local residents. All of this will be available at the 12th Dessert Smorgasbord to be held Thursday, April 22, at 7:30 p.m. in the Mahan Building at the Fayette County Fairground. The Bell Choir from First Presbyterian Church will be the entertainment.

The purpose of the event is to "kick off" the local Cancer Crusade, and the dessert precedes the program. The annual smorgasbord was launched 12 vears ago as a training session for soliciting the following day. It has since envolved into a public educational meeting during the past few years.

A panel of physicians will be on hand for a question and answer period. Dr. Boyd from Wilmington will be guest

Various clubs and organizations are encouraged to send delegations, or to hold their meetings following the smorgasbord. There will be recognition of the groups attending.

The Smorgasbord is sponsored by the Fayette County Unit, American Cancer Society. Co-chairmen for the 1976 event are Mrs. Larry Cruea and the Rev. Gerald Wheat.

'Spring Gardening Day' planned at Kingwood Center

Kingwood Center will present its annual Spring Gardening Day on Sunday, April 25th from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. The special feature this year will be a House Plant Clinic. The public is invited to bring their ailing house plants and have the plant's problems analyzed by experts. Dr. Hugh Poole, Floriculturist from the Ohio Agricultural Extension Service and Mr. William Collins of the Matthai Botanic Gardens, University of Michigan will be available to give their attention to each plant. They will give demonstrations on proper cultural and grooming techniques of house plants. There will also be exhibits of house plants and the tools and supplies needed to maintain them.

Exhibits and demonstrations will provide information on home gardening. The public is invited to ask questions about individual garden problems. All events are free and open to the public. Among the groups cooperating with this year's Spring Gardening Day are: The Ohio Agricultural Extension Service, The Mansfield Men's Garden Club, and the Kingwood Garden Center Committee. Special plant organizations helping this year are: Kingwood Herb Society, Kingwood Gesneriad Kingwood Chapter of the Indoor Light Gardening Society and the Kingwood Rose Society. The entire staff of Kingwood will be available to answer questions on gardening topics.

representing organizations will have exhibits or demonstrations on Cold Frames and Greenhouses, Gardening and Nature Books, Gesneriads, Growing and Using Herbs, Indoor Light Gardens, Mulching Materials and Methods, Nature Study, Pest Control, Plant Propagation, Planting Trees and Shrubs, Hanging Baskets, Roses in the Home Garden, Vegetable Gardening and the Youth Gardening Program. All of the above exhibits and demonstrations will be held in the Exhibit and Meeting Halls and the Workshop; all located across from the Greenhouses

Two films will be shown in the Assembly Room of Kingwood Hall. They are: "Kingwood Center, Beauty for All Seasons," and award-winning film on the year-around attractions of Kingwood. It will be shown at 1:30, 2:30 and 3:30 p.m. "How long is Alwasys-A Story of Trees," a film sponsored by the Pennsylvania Horticultural Society will be shown at 1, 2, 3 and 4 p.m.

Visitors to Spring Gardening Day will be able to enjoy a fine display of flowering plants, especially Kingwood's extensive collection of daffodils. The tulip display may be early this year due to the warm March and April weather. They couple be in bloom for the weekend. As a special treat, members of the Kingwood Garden Center Committee will be serving sassafras tea to all visitors as a spring tonic.

Kingwood Center is easily reached by Interstate 71, U.S. 30, and 42 and Ohio Rts. 13 and 39. In Mansfield, follow the

MR. AND MRS. TERRY L. STUCKEY

Marriage vows exchanged in Apostolic Christian Church

The Apostolic Christian Church, Washington C.H., was the setting for the wedding of Miss Tonda K. Smith and Mr. Terry L. Stuckey. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald R. Smith of Leesburg, and parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Robert Stuckey, of Sabina.

The Rev. Robert Barker, pastor of the church, officiated at the double ring ceremony at 2:30 p.m. and nuptial music was presented by Mrs. Nelanne Frump, organist.

Donald Smith, father of the bride, escorted his daughter to the altar and on behalf of his wife and himself, gave Tonda in marriage. The bride wore a white floor length gown with an empire waistline. The sleeves of the gown were fitted and made of lace and ended in bridal points. Her accessories included a short veil with a white satin bow, a cross diamond necklace which was a present from the groom and heart shaped earrings.

Maid of honor was Miss Terry Flowers, Cedar Lake, Ind. She wore a red floor length gown with scooped neckline and long angel sleeves. A red velvet bow worn in her hair complimented her attire. Miss Flowers also wore a necklace, a gift from the bride, and carried a single red rose with offwhite streamers complementing the red and white color scheme.

The bridesmaid, Miss Debi Frump, Leesburg, wore a red floor length gown with a scooped neckline with short bell sleeves. A red velvet bow was worn in hair and she also wore a necklace, a reception followed immediately after the ceremony in the basement of the church. The dining area was gayly decorated with red hearts and red and white streamers hung from the ceiling. The tables were covered with white tablecloths in red hearts. The bride's table held the traditional three tiered wedding cake decorated with red hearts at one end of the table and a standing heart surrounded with cupids at the other end. The guest tables were centered with a single red rose in a white vase

Miss Jackie Smith, sister of the bride, attended the guest book and she carried a single off white rose with red streamers.

Best man to the groom was Mr. Thomas South, Sabina, and Mr. Stuckey's usher was Mr. Theodore Rogers, Mt. Sterling. They wore light gray tuxedos.

Mother of the bride chose a gold and white street length dress with a matching jacket. Mother of the groom chose a light tan street length dress and both wore white carnations. The grandmother's wore red carnations.

Hostesses for the reception were Mrs. Imogene Riley, Bloomingburg, and Mrs. Virginia Buck, Washington

The new Mrs. Stuckey graduated from Fairfield High School in 1974 and is presently employed by Bobb Bros.. Inc. Mr. Stuckey graduated from Miami Trace High School in 1970 and is gift from the bride. Miss Frump presently engaged in farming. The carried a single off white rose with red newlyweds are residing at 6618 Snowhill Rd., Washington C.H.

Area pupil captures national scholarship

COLUMBUS -- Jeffrey L. Aldridge, a senior at East Union High School, is a a 1976 Earthwatch winner of Scholarship. State Superintendent of Public Instruction Martin W. Essex announced recently

He is among four from Ohio who received the nationally sponsored scientific research grants for gifted students. A total of 139 were awarded nationally

The Scholarship program is funded by private organizations and foundations and administered Educational Expeditions International (EEI), of Belmont, Mass., in cooperation with the Council of State

Directors of Programs for the Gifted. Fifteen Ohio students were honored at the Ohio Board of Education meeting April 12 for being selected as state finalists in the program from among 120 applicants. They were chosen by a state-appointed committee of private citizens, leaders in the scientific community, and officials of the Ohio Department of Education.

Winners were chosen by officials of

EEI on the basis of autobiographical essays relating scientific interests, and on the recommendation of school personnel

As a winner, Aldridge will be included as a working member of a team of scientists on a professional research expedition. Students will do research in the fields of anthropology, archaeology, biology, ecology, geology, and oceanography

The non-profit EEI was founded as a national effort to involve citizens of all ages in basic field research expeditions.

Aldridge is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Glatis Aldridge, of 89 Silver Maple Court, Sabina. His major field of interest is physics.

The other Ohio winners are Steven Summers, of Ravenna; Keith Atkins, of Sandusky; and James Walsh, of St.

coming fiscal year. The bill, approved by a 298-to-52 vote margin, provides for the procurement of major weapons systems, plus all military research and development. It also authorizes increases in Active and Reserve military personnel strengths.

Almost 30 per cent higher than the Fiscal Year 1976 authorization, the House bill provides about $23 billion for purchase for weapons and related equipment and $10.4 billion for research and development, testing and evaluation

Although U.S. defense dollar expenditures have gradually increased in almost every recent year, inflation has actually reduced the budget's buying power, so that this year's budget will purchase 40 percent less goods and services than the 1968 defense budget.

Amendments aimed at reducing various arms programs were soundly beaten. They included attempts to delay production of the B-1 strategic bomber and to hold up money for a nuclear-powered aircraft carrier. The House also rejected attempts to cut back submarine construction, ban testing of advanced missile warheads and reduce our forces overseas by 47,000 men.

In recent years, Congress has allowed the defense budget to shrink to one-quarter of all federal spending. Only 15 years ago, it represented onehalf. The real growth in government spending has been in the non-defense

The Soviet Union spends the equivalent of about $60 billion a year for weapons development and purchase. That is roughly what we spent nine years ago. While the Soviets have boosted their weapons expenditures. ours have dropped to under $35 billion last year.

CLEVELAND (AP)-United Rubber Workers President Peter Bommarito says he is "sincerely hopeful" that a final round of talks opening today with the Firestone Tire & Rubber Co. will produce a settlement before the union's 12:01 a.m. Wednesday strike deadline.

Talks with Firestone representatives were to start at 10 a.m., a URW spokesman said

Bommarito said after one of a series of weekend planning sessions with URW leaders that the union was concentrating on Firestone because that firm was "in a good position to make a settlement.

"Firestone produces about 39 per cent of the tires for Ford and 20 per cent for General Motors," Bommarito added. "Some of Firestone's stockpiles are depleted

The URW president said Firestone's production had increased after a 1975 slump and that the firm had a good earnings forecast for the second quarter of 1976.

He said the URW's 15-member advisory committee, which includes representatives of locals at all the Big Four rubber companies, authorized a strike against all four companies if a satisfactory agreement is not reached.

The gun and money were scheduled to be carried in the baggage compartment of the plane.

Some $53,100 in $10 to $100 bills, is being held in a vault at the Peoples Deposit Bank in Burlington, Ky.

Lay enforcement officials from Boone County, Greater Cincinnati Airport, the Internal Revenue Service and the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms are investigating the case.

A probe by the Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI) was called off after Eldon Webb, chief U.S. attorney for the Eastern District of Kentucky, said his would not prosecute Freeland on federal charges.

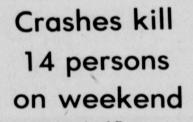

Ted Bushelman, airport director of community relations, said Delta Air Lines personnel became suspicious of Freeland before the arrest was made because he appeared to fit a recently-released "profile" of potential airplane hijackers.

The profile enables security guards to anticipate possible hijackers based on physical appearance and mannerisms, Bushelman said. The system was prepared by the Federal Aviation Administration, he said, and was placed into effect at the Greater Cincinnati Airport last Thursday.

Bushelman said details of the profile are confidential in order to help preserve the effectiveness of the system.

Columbus school lawsuit opens

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) COLUMBUS. Ohio (AP) — The NAACP challenges the policies of the Columbus school board in a federal suit starting today. The civil rights group acknowledges that the suit, like others in the state, is designed to pressure local schools into desegregating.

'We're saying that the schools are essentially segregated and that it wasn't serendipidity that they got that way," said Louis Lucas, lead counsel for the NAACP in the suit, opening before U.S. District Court Judge Robert Duncan.

Lucas characterizes the school voluntary plan of desegregation, the socalled Columbus plan, as a "phony." "It is a phony freedom of choice plan that's minimal in effect and doesn't desegregate the

But though the school board itself is divided into a majority white faction that is waiting for a court decision and a black faction that seeks independent steps, officials say they expect no

"I think Columbus can face any problem that comes," said John Ellis, school superintendent. "The board has attempted to meet this particular issue with a philosophy consistent with the school.

Community groups have, met to discuss the case. The Chamber of Commerce has formed a citizens committee to work with the school board no matter what the court decides. Religious leaders have also discussed the issues and efforts to support peaceful compliance with any desegregation plans.

But Mayor Tom Moody takes the position that "our schools are not segregated and they never have been segregated." At least, he says, there has never been any intention to segregate them.

In Columbus and other major cities he says, "the black-white issue is dead, except in the hearts of a few extremists

Lucas says he perceives a willingness to comply with desegregation guidelines, especially when he compares the situation with the difficulties plaguing court-ordered busing in Boston.

Ellis said the school board is committed to neighborhood schools, and that it has never consciously pursued a policy of racial segregation.

Panthers pick up trophy at Unioto

CHILLICOTHE - Miami Trace High School won its first team track trophy Saturday, and even though the Panthers had to share it, coach Bill Beatty was pleased.

'We did better than I thought," Beatty said of the Panthers second place finish at the Unioto Metric Meet Saturday. Miami Trace shared the runnerup spot with class A powerhouse Adena while Hillsboro won the championship.

The metric which is based on Olympic distances gives two trophies, one to the first place team and one to the second place finishers. But, Saturday three trophies were handed third-place finish in the final event of

Miami Trace held a 38-32 lead over Adena going into the final two events, the 3000 meter (two-mile) run and the 1600 meter (mile) relay. Adena took first in the 3000 meter to take a 39-38

The Panther relay team needed a first in the 1600 meter to secure an outright second-place finish-Hillsboro had already wrapped up first. The team of Dave Ritenour, Bruce Ervin, Art Schlichter and Greg Cobb took second giving them at least a tie. Adena took third edging out the Chesapeake turned out to be a tie.

Three records fell in the fifth annual metric meet and the Panthers set two

Dan Gifford shattered the high jump mark of 1.845 meters or 6'1" with a leap of 1.935 meters or 6'412". The Panther junior teamed with Art Schlichter's second-place, gave Miami Trace an early lead in the field events.

Despite Gifford's fine performance in the high jump pit, Bill Hanners turned the Panthers' most outstanding individual performance.

He remained unbeaten in the distance races winning the 800 meters which is several yards shy of an 880yard run with a 2:04 clocking. However, it was Hanners performance in the 1500 meters that turned heads.

The 1500 meters is about 100 yards shy of a mile, and Hanners covered the in 4:19.0 taking four seconds off the previous meet record. According to Beatty, Hanners clocking for the mile at his rate of speed for the 1500 meters would have been around four and a half minutes.

Hanners was the Panthers only double winner Saturday. In fact, there was only one other double winner, Adena sprinter Clark Gilmore in the 100-meter and the 200-meter dashes.

The other meet record to fall was in the shot put as Unioto's Bob Matson snapped a 51'7" record by nearly two

Several Panthers picked up points along with Schlichter with second-place finishes. Cobb took second behind Gilmore in the 100 meter, while Ritenour helped out in the sprints with a second in the 400 meter. Miami Trace was without sprinter Bill Warnock, who didn't attend the meet and was suspended by Beatty

Ervin took the Panthers other second place finish with a :42.2 clocking in the 300-meter low hurdles. The event which is a rarity on the high school level is nearly three times as far as the regular low hurdle event. Beatty attributed Ervins' strength to his strong showing.

Also picking up points for the Panthers were Rod Garringer in the pole vault, Ralph Fast in the shot, Terry Rodgers in the 1500-meter run and the 400-meter relay team of Lonnie Hixon, Brian Zurface, Ken Ward and Ervin. All were fifth place finishes.

The Panthers have four meets scheduled for this week with Logan at home Monday, Unioto at home Tuesday, Hillsboro on the road Thursday and back to Chillicothe on Saturday for the Unioto Relays: Beatty is optomistic about the Panthers' chances in Saturday's relays which will feature the same field of ten teams plus a couple more including Washington C.H.

"We're getting more depth all the time," Beatty said adding that depth was the key to winning a relay meet. He sees the meet coming down to the same three teams that were on top last Saturday—Hillsboro, Adena and Miami

Modest Count downs Reds

CINCINNATI (AP)—What? modest streak in John (The Count) Montefusco? Well, sort of.

"I just wanted to make it through the second inning. I've never done that against this club," said the San Francisco Giants pitcher Sunday after teaming up with Gary Lavelle to fivehit the Cincinnati Reds for a 5-1 victory. Once he weathered the second, the brashness was back. 'I want to make the All-Star team so I had to show Sparky Anderson I'm worthy," said Montefusco, whose braggadoccio took the National League by storm last year. He stirred up the natives at Riverfront Stadium last July when he predicted he would shutout the Reds

But Sunday was a different story.

"All I heard for the last three days was how many times was I going to strike out Bench. I wasn't making any predictions. I wanted the shutout-but quietly this time," said Montefusco, who earned rookie of the year pitching honors in the National League with a 15-9 record.

Montefusco said he settled down after an early flare of tempers between he and catcher Dave Rader. "He was pushing me and pushing me. I finally blew my top. It was the best thing for me. I was upset when they scored the run," he said.

Montefusco, now 2-1, drove in a run with a sacrifice fly and added a double as the Giants won two of the three games against the defending world champions

"That guy is known as a character," It proved to be a lesson in humility. said Manager Bill Rigney. " The word Bench walloped a mammoth home run is right, but the useage is wrong. He has

But while Messersmith was having control trouble, Wynn - another former Dodger - walloped a three-run homer to help the Braves beat Los Angeles 7-6

Catfish Hunter was rolling along, staring his second victory of the season in the face, when two light-hitting Twins derailed the New York Yankees' ace right-hander.

"I give up lot of guys' first home runs," Hunter sighed. "I'm used to it. It used to get me mad, but you can't do anything about it except try and get the next guy out."

The Yankees were leading 4-2 in the top of the ninth and Hunter had limited the Minnesota Twins to just five hits. But that was before Lyman Bostock and Butch Wynegar came to the plate. Larry Hisle started the Twins' rally with a one-out single. Hunter then got a two-strike count on Bostock, who had not hit a home run in his 102 previous major league games 'Munson (catcher Thurman) wanted the next pitch in the dirt," Hunter said, 'but I reared back and tried to put a little extra on a breaking ball and threw it right down the middle.'

"I didn't think it was going out," said Bostock, whose blast over the 353-foot mark in rightcenter tied the game. "A guy who doesn't hit any home runs doesn't know when the ball is gone.

Gary Koch claims Tallahassee victory

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) - "I've achieved one of my long-range goals," exclaimed tour rookie Gary Koch after outplaying five-year veteran John Mahaffey to claim $15,000 first-place money in the $80,000 Tallahassee Open.

'It's difficult to imagine that I could have said at the first of the year that I'd win a golf tournament this season, but I've done it," the former University of Florida star added after winning by a single stroke Sunday.

Koch had three birdies and a bogey on the 7,124-yard Killearn Golf and Country Club layout for a two-underpar 70 in the final round, while Mahaffey could do no better than even

"The pro tour's different from college," said Koch, who won eight collegiate tournaments. "You're in a big league field of 144 and there are 125 guys capable of winning each tournament. In college golf, maybe there are 25 guys

Koch, who has earned $21,752 by winning money in eight of the nine events he's entered, sank a six-foot par putt on the 18th hole, knowing he would be forced into a playoff if he missed. 'I knew he'd be tough to beat," said

Koch, a 23-year-old from Temple Terrace, Fla.

Mahaffey, 27, of Houston, was eighth on last year's money list with $141,471 and is trying hard to lose a runner-up image. He has won only one Professional Golf Association title, the 1973 Sahara Invitational.

Mahaffey, who earned $9,120, was a stroke behind Bob Eastwood entering the day. Eastwood, who led the first three rounds and was two shots ahead of Koch starting play at 11 under par. came home with a five-over 77 to tie Wally Armstrong, Joe Porter and Ron Cerrudo for fifth place at 282.

Sharing third place for $4,720 each were Vic Regalado and Tom Storey at 280. Regalado closed with a 68 and

Arnold Palmer closed with his best round, a 69, to finish at four-under 288, but despite the strong finish said he still plans to take time off from the tour grind in an effort to help his faltering

"I plan to play Houston still, but I will not play this week," said Palmer, 46year-old former king of the tour. "After that, I don't know what I'll do. I may play, and I may not.

Don January wins golf tourney

CARLSBAD, Calif. (AP) — His aging stresses of a sport dominated by awhile and thought he'd pass us the Tournament of Champions.

"I'd played a lot this year, eight weeks out of nine," said the 46-year-old $45,000 first prize. self-styled elder statesman of the pro golf tour. "I was kinda tired and I wasn't too hot about playing.

But the challenge — and the money, definitely the money - of the prestigious $225,000 event made the old pro reconsider.

"Last week at the Masters I decided it was silly. Here I am playing golf for a living and they're putting up a $225,000 pot for only 22 fellows to shoot at, and I can get $4,347 even if I'm last."

From the first swing of his driver on the La Costa Country Club course, last place was never a threat to the slow-moving, easy-going Texas native. He bones were growing wearier from the built a five-stroke lead through three rounds, easily survived a front-nine younger men. Don January sat for threat from young Ben Crenshaw, and completed one of sport's most unusual comebacks Sunday with a frontrunning five-stroke victory for the > January grinned "I'm right glad I decided to play," he said with that characteristic drawl after becoming the oldest tour winner since 1968, when 48-year-old Julius Boros won the Westchester Classic.

Sunday he reaped the profits, carding a final-round 69 for a 277 total, 11 under par and five strokes better than Hubert Green over the windswept, 6,855-yard, par-72 layout.

The prize boosted his winnings to $95,706 - by far the best of his twodecade career. He did it with rounds of 71, 68, 69 and 69.

Homecourt no advantage in playoffs

By ALEX SACHARE AP Sports Writer

Remember the home-court advantage, that much-ballyhooed edge for which various National Basketball Association teams scratched and clawed at each other through the final weeks of the regular season? Well, the Philadelphia 76ers and

Milwaukee Bucks will have all summer to try and find out where it went. Both teams were eliminated from the

NBA playoffs Sunday in the type of games in which the home-court advantage is supposed to be most close, hard-fought, prominent pressure-packed contests, where everything is on the line. Both were playing before enthusiastic crowds at their home arenas-and both were

Fight mars Nets win

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) - The New York Nets won more than just the fourth game of their American Basketball Association playoff series against the Spurs Sunday

They won the fight, said San Antonio Coach Bob Bass.

In both locker rooms after the game, talk centered more on the second period fight which emptied both benches than on the game, won by the Nets 110-108, which evened the series 2-2. San Antonio's George Karl squared the main event. "Taylor just hit the hell out of Karl," said Bass, who several times has complained the games in this playoff series are too physical. "We lost the

off against New York's Brian Taylor in

Before Taylor and Karl could be separated, players from both teams had entered other arm-swinging skirmishes across the court.

Police, coaches and referees eventually cleared the floor.

The best-of-seven semifinal series resumes tonight in Uniondale, N.Y. The other semifinal set, between Denver and Kentucky, resumes tonight in Louisville, with the clubs tied 1-1.

TV Viewing

NEW YORK (AP) - I fear the White House is swamped today by outraged telegrams and inquiries from the Spanish government. And Russia must be wondering if the White House has, well, "gone bananas."

You see, Ron Nessen, President Ford's spokesman, appeared on NBC's late-night "Saturday Night" comedy show to host proceedings that were rowdy and harrumph, harrumph, often tasteless in the best "Saturday Night"

Not only that, Ford, appearing in film clips, introduced Nessen and the show and popped up in its "Update" news segment to say, "Good evening. I'm Gerald Ford and you're not."

Shortly after that, former NBC newsman Nessen appeared in a skit in which he played a spokesman for the late Generalissimo Franco of Spain.

He told a reporter that "the generalissimo's condition is still very grave, but - and I would like to emphasize this - it is stable at this time.' Pressed to admit that Franco was quite dead, he added, "I didn't say that he wasn't dead. I just said he was stable."

Nessen, on leave from the White House, if not his senses, for the show, proved an adept monologuist and skit actor, doing particularly well in an Oval Office skit in which actor Chevy Chase played President Ford.

Despite Nessen's presence, Ford got no mercy. The skit poked fun at his alleged clumsiness, questioned his intelligence and even obliquely brought up his controversial pardon of former President Richard Nixon.

In asking permission to appear on "Saturday Night," Nessen said it would show that Ford has a sense of humor. He also noted that Nixon went on "Laugh-In" in 1968 to say "sock it to me" and, said Nessen, "That may have made the difference in the election.

Chase-Ford: "But he won, didn't he?" Told yes, Chase-Ford observed: "Well, he was funny then and he's funny now. . . That's why I gave him a

As Chase-Ford bumped and stumbled about the office, stapled his ear and put on his old football helmet, Nessen gave him the next morning's schedule: At 7:05 you break the water glass by the sink ... then at 7:12 you tumble down the stairs...

Nessen wisely stayed out of the more outrageous acts, but he did do a few more press secretary skits, appearing in one in a toga to make this announcement for his boss, Oedipus, the lad who liked his mommy: "From now on the queen mother will be referred to as the queen wife.

At the start of his show-opening monologue, Nessen halted to take a bogus collect call from Ford, whom he was joshing at the time.

'You heard the monologue?" Nessen asked. "And you had it explained to you? Betty thinks it's funny? Good. I'm

Leave us hope not. Last Saturday's show was good, bizarre fun and showed the man in the White House might be a good deal hipper than anyone ever suspected.

And any controversy it caused probably will be overshadowed when an even more prominent White House figure hosts next week's show - the late Millard Fillmore.

Some deals are much more volatile than others. For match between Italy and New Zealand during the 1972 World Bridge Olympiad.

The bidding at the first table went as shown. Pabis Ticci and D'Alelio were North-South for Italy, and West (Frank Lu) led club against five spades doubled. East (John Wignall) found the winning defense when he took the club with the ace and played a diamond at trick two!

FOR a loafer."

West ruffed and cashed the king of hearts, so D'Alelio, unexpectedly, went down one. The outcome was altogether different when New Zealand sat North-South. The bidding went:

North East South Pass Pass Pass Pass Pass Pass Pass North led the king of diamonds. Declarer ruffed, played a spade, and made twelve tricks after ruffing a spade in dummy and drawing trumps. Italy thus gained 1,330 points on one deal.

Turkey did even better on the hand in its match against Brazil. They made five spades doubled (650 points) at one table, and six hearts doubled (1,660 points) at the other table.

Similarly, Jamaica gained 1,250 points by making five clubs at one table and five spades doubled at the other

There were some other example, take this one from the matches in which a team scored a game or slam with both the North-South cards and the East-West cards. The deal dramatically confirms the sound theory that when both sides are competing fiercely with distributional hands it's better to bid one more when in doubt and be willing to suffer a small loss, than to pass or double too soon and risk a large

The car went into a ditch and struck a rod of fence, incurring slight damage in the process.

Arch Moore trial opens

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP)-The fifth-floor courtroom in the federal building here will probably be crowded beginning Tuesday for the federal extortion trial of Gov. Arch A. Moore Jr., but there will be no extraordinary security measures

James McWhorter, clerk of U.S. District Court, said Judges Dennis Knapp and Joseph Young discussed whether to have metal detectors or extra security for the trial, but decided

Knapp is the senior judge for the southern district of West Virginia and Young, from Baltimore, is presiding at the trial because West Virginia's federal judges disqualified themselves.

"Neither of them feel there's anything about the type of person involved in this thing that would make anyone a security risk," McWhorter

In the trials last year of the Rev. Marvin Horan and others for conspiracy to bomb schools during the Kanawha County textbook protest, the court employed extra security personnel and metal detectors similar to those used at airports.

Moore and a former aide, William Loy, are charged with conspiracy to extort $25,000 from Theodore R. Price, former president of Diversified Mountaineer Corp., in 1972.

Marie Osmond hurt in crash

NEPHI, Utah (AP) - Pop singer Marie Osmond, 16, cut her face and her mother injured her ribs when Marie drove a car into a trailer her father was towing.

Marie was treated and released from Utah Valley Hopsital after the collision Saturday night on a highway 40 miles south of the Osmond family home in Provo. Her mother, Olive, was listed in satisfactory condition there on Sunday.

The highway patrol said Marie was driving a 1973 Mercedes when it struck the rear of a rental trailer towed by a van driven by her father.

Arrests

Vandalism reports checked by police

Washington C.H. police officers investigated seven offense reports over the weekend, four of which dealt with vandalism.

Approximately $200 in damage was incurred when a subject used his fist to smash a windshield on a car belonging to Iva B. Armstrong, 722 Eastern Ave., as it was parked in front of Weegie's Town Tavern on E. Court Street, at 9:05 p.m. Sunday

More glass was broken in a 12:20 a.m. Saturday incident during which someone reportedly throw a brick through a $50 window in the O.E. Hardway VFW Post, 335 Water St.

Cora Allen, 1008 John St., told police officers that upon checking her front screen door Saturday morning, a tear in the material was discovered. The incident is believed was to have occured at 12:30 a.m. Saturday, and it caused $10 in damage.

Two tires on a car belonging to Roger Allen, 603 E. Elm St., were reported punctured as the car was parked in front of Allen's residence during the early morning hours of Saturday. The tires were valued at $40.

James N. Payton, 627 E. Paint St., stated that after awakening in his car, he noticed a subject removing his wallet from a back pocket at 11 p.m. Friday. Approximatley $150 in cash and assorted identification cards were contained in the wallet.

Plane hijacker slain

DENVER (AP) - A gunman who held two hostages on a private airplane for seven hours was shot and killed by FBI agents early today as he boarded a jet he thought was to fly him to Mexico, an FBI spokesman said.

Ted Rosack, special agent in charge of the Denver FBI office, said Roger Lyle Lentz, 31, was killed shortly after midnight, ending an episode that began in Grand Island, Neb., and included two separate flights over Colorado aboard the commandeered private plane.

Neither hostage — pilot Robert Blair and mechanic Harlan Hiller, both of Grand Island - was hurt during the seven hours they spent in the Piper Navaho with the gunman or in the gunfire aboard the commercial jet, Rosack said.

"The subject came up the ramp with his hostages, ducked into the galley, and when agents aboard the plane properly identified him, was shot," Rosack said. "One of the agents said he believed the subject fired one shot, but we're still investigating that."

The shooting was aboard a Convair 990, a four-engine jet owned by Ports of Call Travel Club, a local airline. It was the second jet prepared for Lentz, who earlier rejected a DC8 trainer owned by United Airlines for the flight he demanded to Mexico.

Rosack said Lentz, who faced charges at home including vehicular homicide and larceny, was involved in a gunfight earlier Sunday with authorities in Grand Island.

He went to the Grand Island airport, carried a .22-caliber revolver and a .410 shotgun aboard the Navaho and ordered Blair to take off, Rosack said.

He said Hiller was in the airplane because he had just finished servicing it for flight.

After arriving at Denver's Stapleton International Airport, the plane sat on a runway while FBI agents tried to talk Lentz into surrendering, Rosack said. He demanded a Boeing 747, then a Boeing 737, then any type of com-mercial aircraft to fly him to Mexico, Rosack said.

The FBI agent said the plane took on fuel after 3½ hours on the ground, then inexplicably took off, circled the airport for about a half-hour and landed. It was refueled and took off again.

During the second flight, Blair got clearance to land at Casper, Wyo., about 250 miles north of Denver, but just north of Greeley, Colo., 50 miles north of Denver, the plane turned back and returned to Stapleton.

stampede developing.

Apparently, a number of Ohio assenger car owners with A-through-K last names are determined to wait in long lines at the end of April to buy their 1976 license plates.

With two weeks to go before the April 30, state motor vehicles bureau registrar Curtis Andrews reported today that only a small percentage of A-K car owners have heeded his repeated public appeals to buy their new tags early. . . Unless plate sales pick up dramatically in the next 5-7 days, Andrews said, there will almost certainly be a massive "stampede" to local license agencies during the final few days of the month. . .

"The last thing we want to see is round-the-block waiting lines and a lot of needless aggravation," said Andrews. . . "That's why we are once again urging people in the A-K group to buy their tags right away before the last week of the month." he said.

Andrews repeated his earlier warnings that the April 30 deadline will be strictly enforced this year. . . He emphasized that all blue 1975 validation stickers will expire at midnight, April 30, and said anyone still driving on old tags with a blue sticker after that date can expect to be stopped and cited by law enforcement officers.

The April 30 deadline does not apply to L-Z passenger car owners (who must buy and attach their new tags between May 1 and May 31), and it does not apply to non-passenger vehicles like trucks, trailers, motorcycles or house vehicles which can be registered any time before May 31, regardless of the owner's last name.

Patients support urban doctor's fight against eviction for park

Marian de la company de la

MIAMI (AP) — His black neighbors say Dr. Alfred Nadler, who is white, has served them for 28 years in the best spirit of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. Now he is to be evicted to make room for a park honoring the slain civil rights leader.

But the 63-year-old doctor is resisting and is being supported by some residents of the predominantly black Liberty City community. A number have even named their children after the doctor.

"MY LIFE is right here. This is my community," says Nadler, whose office was left unscathed by race riots in 1968 when other businesses in the area suffered broken windows and arson at-Nadler left a lucrative Miami Beach practice to move to the area in 1948 because "I was needed. There was only one doctor in the area, and he was sick.

"Others refused to come in here," he said. "I didn't want a Park Avenue practice, and here I have people who appreciate me, thank God."

City officials have told him the land his office occupies is needed for a park, part of a project honoring the late civil rights leader. The project calls for widened roadways and open green spaces in the ghetto area that planners hope will attract industry, cultural and entertainment spots, retail stores and offices.

NEIGHBORHOOD ENTS feel the project is important but so is the doctor.

"To me he's the King of Liberty City," said Zodia Holmes, 69. "When I had my miscarriage, he and his secretary came to my house that night and stayed with me until I was better. 'He's part of the community and he sould be part of the Martin Luther King Boulevard," she said. "He's doing what the man stood for."

Some other area residents say he makes house calls whenever necessary, and often treats people who have no money.

"I've seen people come in here sick without any money," said Alberta Patterson. "I've been here without any money, and when I got it, I paid him and it was all right."

LOCAL OFFICIALS have tried to relocate Nadler, but he has rejected various suggestions. Nadler said one site was next door to a pool hall and bar, and another was too far away for his elderly patients.

Israel Milton, director of one agency involved in the project, said Nadler was procrastinating and if the doctor doesn't decide on a new location soon, "I'll pull all the facts together and go to the city attorney to advise him to move on this thing."

Nadler said he is determined to stay in the immediate area.

Bills face death in Assembly

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) - Bills that haven't cleared at least one chamber probably will get lost in the shuffle as the legislature begins on Tuesday a two-week drive to bring the current session to a close.

Floor sessions and committee activity both will reflect what has become a traditional policy giving emphasis to bills near passage in the closing days. There probably will be some exceptions, as members with long stalled measures begin "horse trading" among themselves.

On Tuesday, the House returns from a week-long Easter break to consider Senate amendments to five measures. They will go to the governor if the amendments are approved. The lower chamber votes the same day on four bills that originated in the Senate.

Similarly, senators return for a flood session that calls for votes on five House measures. Committee sessions follow the same pattern, with House panels looking at a total of 25 Senate bills Tuesday through Thursday compared to 13 of their own. Of 55 measures to be heard in the Senate, 40 originated in the House.

Three major bills are among those in the House awaiting action on Senate amendments. One requires statewide voter registration in Ohio (only 64 of the 88 counties now require registration), and the other allows sale of liquor on election day. The latter would not apply to the June 8 primary, however.

House sponsors predict approval of Senate amendments to a third bill prohibiting natural gas utilities from passing along costs of emergency supplies for industry to residential customers. The measure assertedly would delete from most residential bills a $1 surcharge applied last winter with the purchase of emergency supplies for

Floor votes are scheduled Tuesday in the House that would virtually complete passage of other Senate measures that provide identification cards for nondriving senior and handicapped citizens, and to permit counties to license electrical, heating, and air conditioning contractors.

A House bill of major importance to consumers is due for a Senate floor vote Tuesday.

It repeals the long embattled holder in due course doctrine, which allows installment sellers to divest themselves of installment contracts, usually selling them to banks or finance companies, and as a result escape responsibility from faulty merchandise of shabby The bill permits the purchaser to withhold payments in such situations. Some other big issues remain at committee stage after being approved by one chamber or the other or in one instance both houses

A Senate-House conference committee meets for a second time Tuesday to try to resolve differences in a highly publicized bill that establishes a new utility rate making formula. That panel appeared in serious deadlock at its first session last week.

On Thursday, a Senate Ways and Means subcommittee tries again after several meetings to complete work on amendments to another priority bill. It is designed to protect Ohio homeowners from future property tax increases that result from inflation.

In other business, the House Judiciary Committee may not try to finish work this week on a Senate measure that permits bingo games to be sponsored by charitable, tax exempt organizations. Chairman Harry J. Lehman, D-16 Shaker Heights, said he disliked the amendments tacked on to the measure by his committee last week and added that he may sit on the measure for a while.

Approval for use as landfill expected this summer

County commissioners contract to farm newly-acquired land

By GEORGE MALEK

The Fayette County Board of Commissioners have contracted with Donald Denen to farm more than 100 acres of land purchased near the Washington C.H. Industrial Park.

The land, which was purchased by the commissioners for $233,172 March 23 at the auction of the late Edna Hamm's estate, will be used by the county as

The portion of the land which is not immediately used for landfill will be farmed by Denen and the profits divided between Denen and the county. Denen currently operates the Fayette County farm on the CCC Highway-E where he resides.

The commissioners said the two parties will share the operating expenses with Denen supplying the necessary machinery. This is the same arrangement under which the 450-acre county farm is maintained.

Approval of the new site by the Fayette County Health Department and the Ohio Environmental

Actual use of the site as a landfill is expected to begin in six months to one year.

Farming will continue while the land is serving as a landfill. It will require only three to five acres per year for the landfill operation.

FINANCING the purchase will come largely from federal revenue sharing monies. The $23,317 down payment on the land came from existing revenue sharing funds. The commissioners expect too borrow $160,000 on a five-year note which they expect to eventually bond.

If revenue sharing is continued, a question which is currently being debated in Congress, the greatest percentage of the money to repay the loan will also come from revenue sharing in the coming years.

In addition to the down payment and loan, there will be an outstanding balance of nearly $50,000. The commissioners have not yet decided what monies will be used to pay this portion of the cost. Likely sources are revenue sharing, the county farm account, and the road maintenance and repair fund.

The latter is being considered because the 137-acre tract is to eventually house the county highway department facilities. The commissioners stressed that the purchase was prompted solely by the need for a new landfill site. Estimates of the useful life of the current landfill area near Jeffersonville range from four to eight months. The commissioners also stressed that they have no intention of seeking a special tax levy to fund the purchase. Sufficient funds to cover the cost should be available from current sources, they said.

Estimates of the revenue which might be obtained from farming the available land were in the neighborhood of $5,000 per year. In addition, the commissioners said they have been approached concerning lease of some portions which would serve as pasture land, but are not tillable.

Use of the tract as a landfill should not diminish its value, they said. If the land is properly attended during the landfill operation, it should be able to accommodate a variety of uses afterward.

At least 18 inches of topsoil must cover the ground when the fill area is restored. Improved grading will likely enhance the value, the commissioners added. OTHER MATTERS discussed by the commissioners Monday included a joint meeting of the board and the Fayette County Township Trustees Association which will be held Wednesday night.

The meeting has been called by county engineer Charles P. Wagner, who may hold such a joint meeting once each year

The commissioners are also scheduled to attend a Business and Professional Women's banquet Tuesday night. The BPW sponsors a "bosses night" annually, and the commissioners have been invited as guests of their clerk Mrs. Janet Pope.

The commissioners will also meet Monday with John Woodmansee, operator of the Fayette County Airport, to discuss the future of the airport facility, and its role in the economy of the county

Bids on the Mount Ebert ditch project and the new bookkeeping machine for the county auditor's office are to be received today, and awarding of contracts is expected Monday afternoon.

Fighting drops off in Lebanon

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) - Fighting dropped off sharply in the Lebanese civil war today as Syrian officers called in Lebanese leaders to try to arrange enforcement of another ceasefire.

"Let's hope for the best," said emier Rashid Karami. "The Premier security situation all over Lebanon is, relatively speaking, much, much better.

Police reported 18 persons killed and 41 wounded today in scattered shelling in Beirut, nearby mountain towns and Zagharta, President Suleiman Franjieh's hometown in northern Lebanon. More than 100 persons were reported killed Sunday.

the warring leftist Leaders of Moslems and right-wing Christians Saturday night accepted a Syrian proposal for mixed patrols of Palestinian guerrillas and militiamen to restore order under the supervision of a truce committee made up of representatives of the two Lebanese sides and of Yasir Arafat's Palestine Liberation Organization.

Sources in Damascus, the Syrian capital, said Syrian President Hafez Assad also plans to put Syrian soldiers on patrol with the Palestinians and Lebanese if necessary to enforce the truce. Assad has an estimated 6,000 Syrian troops in frontier areas in eastern and northern Lebanon, and he controls 7,000 men of the Saiga Palestinian guerrilla organization.

Col. Aly Madani, head of the Syrian military police, and Col. Mohamed Khouly, the Syrian air force intelligence chief, came from Damascus and met with Karami, Palestinian security chief Abu Hassan and other Lebanese chieftains at Karami's home.

Former President Camille Chamoun, leader of the second-largest Christian militia, refused to attend, saying Karami's home was not a safe meeting place. But his son denied a report that Chamoun and his National Liberal party rejected the new Syrian peace plan. The son said Chamoun accepted the plan in general but objected to a provision rejecting any international (meaning American) or pan-Arab (meaning Egyptian) participation in the peacemaking.

Assad is determined to use the yearlong Lebanese war to make Syria the predominant influence in Lebanon.

Chamoun's opposition to this is shared by the leader of the leftist Moslem forces, Druze chieftain Kamal Jumblatt. He was forced to accept the Syrian plan, however, after Arafat threatened to withdraw the support of his guerrillas from him.

Political maneuvering continued in preparation for a meeting of Parliament to elect another Christian to replace Franjieh. The election meeting is expected within a week or two. The leading contenders are Raymond Edde, 63, head of the National Bloc party, and Elias Sarkis, 50, governor of the central bank.

Premier Karami announced Saturday that Franjieh had signed the constitutional amendment adopted by Parliament a week earlier to end the president's term early and authorize the election of his successor

But aides of the president, who has become a symbol of resistance to Moslem demands for an end to Christian political and economic dominance, hinted that he had not actually signed it, or had signed it without adding the date needed to make his signature legally valid.

Revival of draft machinery proposed

WASHINGTON (AP) - A government commission says the United States could cut $3 billion to $4 billion annually from its defense budget by overhauling procedures for military pay, promotion, retirement and other personnel costs.

The Defense Manpower Commission proposed scrapping the current retirement system, which allows all members of the armed services to retire at half-pay after 20 years. It suggested a 30-year minimum, except for men serving in combat units, who would still be eligible to retire after 20

The seven-member citizens' commission, which was appointed by Congress, spent two years and $2.4 million assaying America's military manpower needs.

In a 518-page report issued Sunday, the panel also said the United States will have to keep its forces at the current level of 2.1 million regulars and 890,000 reservists for the next decade. But the commission charged that the reserves and the National Guard are a weak link behind the nation's all-volunteer force. In case of war, many reservists and the Guard would be needed overseas in 60 to 90 days, but would not be ready for 120 to 160 days, the panel found.

strategists believe Defense American reserve forces would be needed promptly in Europe if the Soviet Union attacked the NATO countries.

The National Guard should be considered a replacement pool for the Army in the early stages of a war, rather than filling the traditional Guard role of going to battle in division strength, the panel said.

The commission, headed by former Selective Service Director Curtis W. Tarr, recommended reviving a standby draft that would require all young men to register upon their 18th birthday. A standy system would allow the government to induct men within 30 days of a mobilization order, the panel said. Without a standby draft, it would take four months to induct men in an emergency, Tarr estimated.

The commission noted "with grave concern that recent administrative actions have already emasculated any semblance of a viable standby selective service system."

The United States abolished the draft in 1973. It decided three months ago that 18 year-old-old men would no longer be required to register, and most of the Selective Service machinery has been dismantled and its 1,700 workers shifted.

The commission said the economic climate will determine whether the allvolunteer force draws sufficient recruits over the next 10 years.

If the economy booms, "the supply of recruits will probably not be large enough," the panel found. Pay raises, more enlistment bonuses and increased enrollment of women could be used to avert "a major recruiting shortfall," the commission said, adding that military pay and benefits must be kept competitive with civilian scales.

Arguments heard on trial coverage

WASHINGTON (AP) - "We do not have spacious profits with which to defend ourselves and our principles, all the way to the Supreme Court, each and every time we feel them to be under attack.... But I am confident that the court will listen to us because we represent the most defenseless among the petitioners."

With these words, H. Brandt Ayers, editor and publisher of the Anniston, Ala., Star, pleaded the cause of the nation's small daily newspapers in a free press-fair trial case which the high court hears arguments on today.

Ayers' letter is quoted in a brief submitted to the court on behalf of news organizations ranging from the Anniston Star, which has a circulation of 28,000, to the major television networks.

The case, which arose out of a Nebraska mass murder, involves conflicting views about the effect of news coverage on the impartiality of potential jurors in criminal cases and the rights of defendants.

It is the first time the court has held a full-scale hearing on the relationship between the free press guarantee of the First Amendment to the Constitution and the fair trial guarantee of the Sixth

A decision is expected by June. District Judge Hugh Stuart of North Platte, Neb., touched off the dispute by restricting pretrial news coverage last October of the case of Erwin Charles

Simants, 29, charged with killing six members of a Sutherland, Neb., With some modifications made by the Nebraska Supreme Court, restrictions remained in effect until a jury was selected Jan. 8 for Simants' trial. He was convicted of first-degree last June that exposure of jurors to news accounts of a crime does not in itself make a fair trial impossible.

The attorneys for the news organizations told the court in a brief last week that the case is vital to "the right of the press rather than govern-ment to decide what news the American people will receive."

Ayers, in his letter to attorneys for news media organizations, said such restrictions would be felt most severely in small towns.

"Our papers are not read in the White House, the Congress, the Supreme Court or by network news executives,' he said. "We have no in-house staff. We retain no great, national law firms.

"Our only alternative is obedient silence. You hear us when we speak now. Who will notice if we are silenced? The small town press will be the unknown soldier of a war between the First and Sixth amendments, a war that should never have been declared,

Nostalgia on side of Humphrey

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Hubert
H. Humphrey has nostalgia on his side in his "noncandidacy" for the then opened a new camp Democratic presidential nomination, pollster Louis Harris contends.

"There is a great kind of nostalgia about Hubert Humphrey. It is the best way you can explain his candidacy, Harris said on ABC's "Issues and Answers" program Sunday.

"He has become kind of the elder statesman in the Democratic party," said Harris, who added that Humphrey's image fit "the New Deal pork chop, pork barrel approach to politics."

The Minnesota senator is not running in the primaries, but he has said he would accept a draft at the Democratic convention in July.

Easter Sunday found noncandidates and candidates alike keeping a low profile. Most spent the day at home with their families. Jimmy Carter, the leader in the early attended church in his hometown of Plains, Ga., then opened a new campaign headquarters there.

Carter promised a victory in the April 27 Pennsylvania primary, telling 400 followers, "I don't intend to lose. "We've got all the political big shots against us. But this is nothing new." Carter has stops in Atlanta, Alexandria, La., and New Orleans today before flying to Houston for an overnight stay.

Rivals Sen. Henry Jackson of Washington and Rep. Morris K. Udall of Arizona spent Easter with their families in the Washington area. Udall later flew to Phoenix, where he planned several appearances today.

Sen. Frank Church, the latest entrant in the Democratic race, spent Sunday at his Boise home and was in Montana today prior to stumping through

On the Republican front, former California Gov. Ronald Reagan spent Easter in Los Angeles and had no campaign activities planned today. He hits the trail again Tuesday with a trip to Alabama and Georgia.

President Ford relaxed at Camp

David over the weekend and planned to stay in the capital until Thursday, when he starts a two-day campaign swing through Indiana and Georgia, which both have May 4 primaries.

His wife, Betty, was scheduled to leave today for four days of political appearances in Texas, which also has a May 1 primary. To help get her political message across, Mrs. Ford was taking along a portable citizens band car radio — a gift from daughter Susan. Former Texas Gov. John Connally, who has resisted overtures to endorse either Reagan or Ford, was to be honored at a GOP fund-raising dinner in Austin tonight.

WASHINGTON (AP) - The volume of the nation's total economic output jumped 2.5 per cent during the three months ending in March and moved to within a whisker of its prerecession peak, the government said today

The Commerce Department said the volume of the nation's Gross National Product (GNP) climbed at an annual rate of 7.5 per cent for the quarter, compared to a 5 per cent growth rate during the previous quarter.

The jump pushed the dollar value of the GNP to an annual rate of $1.616 trillion - 19.4 per cent ahead of peak output during the final quarter of 1973. But inflation cut the quarter's volume of goods and services to two-tenths of a per cent below the 1973 peak.

others, but at the high end of the range. The figures for the quarter are preliminary and subject to revision. Richardson had said he expected the rate of growth for the first three months of the year to be higher than for the previous three months. But Richardson noted in an article in

'It is unlikely that output increased that rapidly in the first quarter, and therefore it will be the second quarter before the previous peak is retained and surpassed," Richardson predicted.

Richardson said the latest GNP figures should show a net increase in business inventories this time and "as final sales continue to rise, inventory accumulation should gain momentum during the remainder of the year."

Richardson said the new GNP figures and other economic indicators coming out of the government should prompt a favorable revision of the administration's initial economic expectations this year.

Mr. Stocker, an inspector in the quality control department at G.D. Instruments, Hollywood, Fla., and former employe of Westinghouse Corporation, died at 7 p.m. Saturday in the Court House Manor, Nursing Home, Washington C.H.

He is survived by his wife, the former Hannah Knisley, whom he married Jan. 26, 1949; three daughters, Mrs. David (Mary) Luckhart of Jamestown, formerly of Washington C.H., Mrs. Gene (Shirley) Sprinkle of Hollywood, Fla., and Miss Pamela Stocker of Santa Anta, Calif.; four grandchildren; two brothers, William (Budd) Stocker of Bellefontaine, and Joseph Stocker of Tipton, Ind.; one sister, Mrs. Orville (Eddeth) Childs of Rt. 6, Cridersville; and several nieces and nephews.

Friends may call at the Van Horn Funeral Home, Lakeview, from 2 to 4 and 7 until 9 p.m. Tuesday.

Mrs. William Temple

CIRCLEVILLE—Services for Mrs. Gladys Temple, 62, wife of William G. Temple, of Circleville, will be held at 1 p.m. Tuesday in the Wellman Funeral Home, Circleville.

Mrs. Temple, a native of Washington C.H., died at 8:20 p.m. Friday in Mount Carmel Hospital, Columbus. Besides her husband, she is survived by two sons, Donald Evans, Rt. 1, Orient, and Harold Temple, Rt. 1, Ashhome; two grandchildren, brothers and four sisters.

The Rev. John Demint and the Rev. Eugene Flowers will officiate and burial will be in Forest Cemetery, Friends may call at the funeral home anytime today and until the time of services Tuesday.

KENNETH P. MICKLE - Services for Kenneth P. Mickle, of Williamsburg, were held at 1:30 p.m. Saturday in the Kirkpatrick Funeral Home, Washington C.H., with the Rev. Ray Russell officiating. Mr. Mickle, who had spent most of his life in Fayette County, died Wednesday.

Pallbearers for the burial in Highlawn Memory Gardens were Ralph Curry, Raymond Mickle, James Garringer, Dennis Mickle, John Stephany and Brian Mickle.

Wave discharge now not allowed

KEY WEST, Fla. (AP) - Kathleen A. Clark said no when the Navy offered to discharge her after she became pregnant 20 months ago. She's changed her mind, but now the Navy is saying no to her application for discharge.

Mrs. Clark said she realized she had been wrong to think she could raise her baby and at the same time continue working as a Wave at the Key West Naval Air Station.

Her commanding officer agreed to her new request for discharge, and her psychiatrist, social worker and pediatrician all added their opinions that leaving the Navy would be a good thing for her.

But the Navy's top brass has turned her down, despite her pleas that she has an infant in need of care.

city's firefighters failed to report to work today in an apparent protest over lack of settlement of a wage dispute.

Mayor Tom Moody at a news conference urged citizens to exert "extreme caution" after 121 of 230 firefighters on the day shift called in

Moody said the department was being staffed by men held over from the previous shift. But the mayor said he was unsure how long that situation could continue. "Our resources will be severely taxed and we must call on all citizens to go overboard," the mayor said. "It is important that every citizen exert extreme caution. Safety Director Bernard Chupka said city officials are discussing the possibility of legal action against the

The job action comes after firemen voted Saturday 367-162 to reject a $4 million pay offer by the city.

The firemen originally were seeking an immediate 13 per cent pay increase. The city's pay package would have given them an immediate 6 per cent increase, 4 per cent boost in December, 3 per cent in June 1977 and 5 per cent in December 1977.

The package also included fringe benefits, such as dental insurance and emergency medical care. Contracts with city fireman and policeman expired Dec. 28. The policeman staged a stepped up ticketing campaign earlier this month and came to a contract agreement with the city.

The firefighters took no job action at that time, although they had discussed pay parity with police officers.

Policemen voted a week ago to accept the same city wage proposal. However, Roy Morello, president of the International Association of Fire Fighters Local 67, said firemen rejected the pact because it did not decrease the firefighters' workweek or increase their vacation time. The fire department consists of 627 firefighters, 107 lieutenants, 32 captains, 24 batalion chiefs and six assistant chiefs. Present salaries on the contract that expired Dec. 28 range from $9,089 for starting officers to $13,707 after 21/2 years of service.

Michael Gable, city finance director, has pointed out that the city cannot afford substantial pay increases, having laid off more than 200 workers in the past year because of budget

Vaccine volunteers ready for tests

Center for Disease Control say federal employes and Texas prison inmates who will be given the first inoculations of swine flu vaccine starting this week are in no danger of contracting the disease because the vaccine contains a dead virus.

The vaccine was developed to combat an anticipated outbreak of swine flu in the United States this year after the strain surfaced in January at Ft. Dix. N.J.

Scientists suspect that a swine-type flu similar to the anticipated strain may have caused a world-wide epidemic in 1918-19. Dr. Michael Gregg, director of viral diseases for the Center for Disease Control, said that when a live virus, inoculated may show symptoms compatible to the disease. But the new swine flu vaccine will be a dead virus," Gregg said in an

ATLANTA (AP) - Scientists at the react with the chemical, yielding a vaccine that will stimulate the production of protective antibodies in recipients without reproducing the disease.

Officials of the Food and Drug Administration in Washington said the agency has received 24,000 vials of the vaccine in three dosage strengths from four drug companies. An appropriations bill that President

Ford signed Thursday includes $135 million for enough vaccine to immunize the entire population of the United States — about 213 million persons. Employes of the FDA and the National Institutes of Health have

Kings Island unable to count baboons

Tuesday Night is

KINGS MILLS, Ohio (AP) - Officials at Kings Island Amusement Park have discovered to their chagrin that all the baboons they see are not the number of baboons they've got.

'We kept getting different counts. First we'd get 47, then 53, but we just assumed we had the whole troop until we started getting the phone calls," lamented Dan Aylward, the park's advertising manager.

The park discovered Saturday that one of the 50 baboons which had escaped from their compound last week had wandered outside the park, while the other 49 remained in the same area they've occupied since gaining their freedom.

The animals spent the day Sunday, moving back and forth between their old compound and a stand of trees about 100 feet away.

They spent their time playing, lazing in the warm sun and gorging them-selves on fruit, much of which had been tranquilized in an attempt to bring them back into the compound

Park officials said they hoped to have the baboons back in their compound within 24 hours as soon as they finished

construction of an electrical fence to keep the baboons in the compound.

Park officials meanwhile were asking local residents to help them find the baboon which got away

'We think be's trying to make it back to the troop, but that our personnel who are watching the baboons may be preventing him from reaching the others," said Aylward, who said that the first reports of the runaway baboons were received Saturday.

"It's really hard to count baboons because they look alike and they are always moving," he concluded. "You count one and then another will come out to play and you'll count the first one again by accident.

"It would be simple if they would go single file, but that just isn't the way these animals operate.'

Opinion And Comment

Legacy of Howard Hughes

The late Howard Hughes was a man whose highly publicized ec-centricities tended to obscure his very considerable achievements. His fanatically reclusive lifestyle and the enormous wealth that made it possible dominated popular interest in him over the past 20-odd years. Yet his genuine contributions, notably as an aviation pioneer but also in motion pictures and electronics, will be a lasting memorial to this unusual man.

Hughes' love affair with flying and aircraft development began early. He built airplanes and flew them and once brusquely told an aide who objected to the risk: "I do my own

He was good at it. in his 20s-when he had already begun the parlaying of an inherited fortune which ultimately made him a billionaire - he broke numerous aviation records. He set a world speed record of 352 miles an hour in 1935, flew around the world in four days in 1938. Eight years later, testing his XF-11 experimental photographic plane, he crashed and barely escaped death.

Hughes also is known for his early career as a trailbreaking movie producer. His great success was "Hell's Angels," which cost four million dollars to make. But in some ways the controversial film, "The

Outlaw," had broader significance; his successful censorship fight, as someone later observed, "broke the way for other producers to bring out forthright films dealing with important themes.'

Howard Hughes was an unpredictable man of extraordinary ability - above all, perhaps, a financial genius. That genius was applied to many daring, innovative enterprises. He lived as he chose. During the last quarter century of an eventful life he chose to live as a virtual hermit. Only death was strong enough to break down the walls that had hidden him from the decision has been taken and with the large clutch of delegates Michigan will be an important state for the Democratic contestants.

And the big issue that they will have to congront here is unemployment.

Henry Ford II admitted in an interview in The Detroit News that this will be a 10-million-plus car year, not the scacely more than 9.5 million he had earlier predicted.

But this upsurge in the auto industry has touched "the Motor Town" little, if at all. One reason, of course, is that the industry — with the exception of Chrysler — is widely dispessed in other parts of the country and what was once the center of the machine that tran-sformed the world is today no more than a symbol.

The unemployment rate here is put today at 20 per cent. But there is good reason to believe that, as with nationwide unemployment figures, this is a gross underestimate. Persons who should know put the unemployment rate in the city's black ghetto at 40 per cent or more. And this includes not only youths but individuals of all ages.

Here is the fundamental contradiction of this strange election year. All the economic indicators are slowly rising. The employed, the affluent, are buying new cars and, in a larger proporition, bigger cars. At the same time, the great mass of the unemployed remains little changed. The total of 8 million, more or less, does not include those who have long since given up looking for jobs. They are, as soneone has well put it, the invisible men and women who have been screened off from view by the affluent majority.

This is what the candidates will confront in acute form: the fundamental contradiction between the well-off who fear more inflation and the jobless who believe the government must by the employer of last resort. Busing was the big issue in 1972 and it gave George Wallace the state. Much of his strength came from the men on the assembly line and in the auto parts plant around Michigan.

While the United Auto Workers steered clear of any commitment, UAW men liked Wallace's denunciation of pointy-headed intellectuals who were running Washington.

A knowledgable guess is that much of the Wallace strength will go this time to Jimmy Carter. He is a moderate Southerner and that background appeals to men and women who came out of the South in the great rush of the war. Moreover Carter has shown the appeal he has for the blacks.

As Morris Udall has discovered, full employment with jobs created by the government has only slight pulling power. It should work in this state where the UAW is out after a new contract with greatly increased fringe benefits and the Teamsters won hefty wage boosts after a short strike.

But gains by labor raise the bogey of inflation and this scares off the conservatives and moderates. The comfortable assumption of well-off Detroiters is that the built-in cushions of unemployment insurance and welfare will work against violence.

In July 1967, large sections of the city were burned and much of this burnt-out area has not been rebuilt. The experience was shattering not only to the city itself but to the outlying suburbs to which a large portion of whites had

The cushions may work even as large numbers go off unemployment insurance and pensions from industry and go on welfare but the transition is not any easy one and it seems to relegate the individual to a permanent status outside the system.

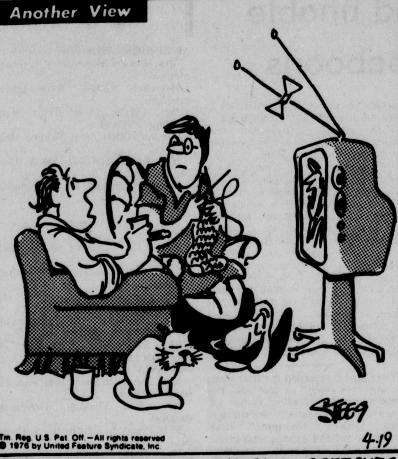

Those with some knowledge believe the coming summer will be a severe test for the patience of the dispossessed trying to make a welfare check cover the cost of living which is still high with food prices likely to continue to rise.

This is a state with as many variations as any in the union. Detroit's city center is as remote from the upper peninsula as though they were on different planets. The presidential candidates here face a truly formidable

Student regulations set

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Between now and next fall, boards of education throughout Ohio are being required to draw up specific codes of conduct outlining reasons for which students can be removed, suspended, or ex-

The requirement came down from the legislature this year after the U.S. Supreme Court ruled that students, just like everyone else, are entitled to due process—specifically the right to some kind of formal hearing before being disciplined.

Rep. Sam Speck, R-95 New Concord, guided the bill through the legislative process during a period of more than 13 months, finally emerging with a compromise measure with broad support from the interested parties.

Signed by Gov. James A. Rhodes last March, it becomes part of Ohio's statutes June 4, but school boards are being given until the first of September to adopt their conduct codes.

The Ohio Association of Secondary School Principals-high schools are likely to be most affected by the new law-has advised its members of the procedural requirements that are mandated for each of the three types of disciplinary actions. These include:

must give reasons to the pupil in writing, and the pupil must be given an opportunity to appear at an informal hearing to challenge the reasons. Parents must be notified of suspensions within 24 hours, including the reason, and of their right of appeal to the board of education.

-Removals: A superintendent, principal, or assistant principal may, if student's presence poses "a continuing danger" to persons or property, remove a student from the premises, curricular, or extracurricular activity. A teacher has the right of emergency removals from his or her classroom, but must immediately notify the principal of reasons for doing so. A due process hearing on removals must occur within 24 hours, and persons who requested or ordered the removal must be present. In an emergency removal, a pupil can be kept from class until the matter is disposed of either by rein-statement, suspension, or expulsion.

—Expulsion: The right to expel is left solely in the hands of superintendents.

The same prior notice and hearings are required, except that hearing must be no less than three days and no more than five days after notice is given.

Parents or guardians must be advised in writing of the reasons for expulsion, advised of their right to appeal to the board of education, and given a closed hearing if requested.

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

Teen fears growing up to problems

DEAR ABBY: I am nearly 13, and I have been reading your column since I was about 11. From the looks of the way married people hate each other, it makes me afraid to get married.

I don't think it would be very much fun to be a grownup because they have so many problems like getting jobs, paying taxes and the whole political mess. I don't know what I am going to do when I get out of school, but I think I'd rather just spend my whole life in school than be an adult in a world like this one. People keep talking about peace and love, and all they do is go around hurting and killing each other.

What do you think I should do?
AFRAID TO GROW UP

DEAR AFRAID: Grow up anyway. We need adults who are dissatisfied with a world filled with people who say they want peace but go around hurting and killing each other. And don't decide against marriage either. My column is a trouble dump. There are plenty of good marriages, but nobody ever writes to Dear Abby to tell me how happy he is.

DEAR ABBY: Is yawning a sign of physical fatigue? Or is it a sign of boredome? CURIOUS

DEAR CURIOUS: It can be either or both. It's usually an involuntary opening of the mouth when you wish others would shut theirs.

DEAR ABBY: The letter from the distressed parents who was shocked at her daughter's "dishonesty and bad taste" in choosing to wear a white wedding gown when everybody knew she was no virgin provoked me into writing this. My daughter is divorced, over 30 and no virgin either, but she is planning to be married soon, and she has chosen to wear a white gown. In fact, I am knitting it for her now, and I couldn't be happier.,

I don't feel that my daughter is declaring herself a virgin by wearing white. She is declaring herself a bride. For that I am thankful. She could have chosen to live with her partner instead of marrying him.

Unhappy consumers making voices heard

EDITOR'S NOTE—Got a gripe? Now more than ever, there is someone out there willing to listen. As more Americans speak up for their rights, more government departments and private buinesses have learned that the complaining consumer has a loud voice.

By LOUISE COOK

Associated Press Writer
Fed up with products that don't produce and services that don't serve, Americans have learned that it pays to complain.

No one keeps statistics on the number of complaints received by private industry and government agencies. It would be impossible because there are so many overlapping departments, bureaus and offices and the number is growing steadily.

Five years ago, for example, there were nine consumer agencies at the state level, according to the Office of Consumer Affairs of the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare. Today there are 135.

Dorothy Burkhardt who heads the complaint division of the federal consumer affairs unit said her office alone received almost 27,000 complaints in the first 11 months of 1975, compared to 24,000 complaints in all of 1974. A 1975 study by the Office of Consumer Affairs showed that 15 federal agencies — a relatively small section of Washington's bureaucracy—spent $6.4 million annually answering complaints.

There are signs on all sides that consumers are more aware of their rights and less hesitant about demanding them. The same person who would have shrugged and said "chalk it up to experience," when confronted with a faulty product five years ago, is writing to the company president today.

"People are more ready to complain to all institutions," said E. Patrick McGuire, senior research analyst at the Conference Board, a New Yorkbased nonprofit business group.

based nonprofit business group.
"They expect more of products and services ... They are more cynical of companies' attempts to redress their grievances."

Robert Sable, an attorney with the National Consumer Law Center in Boston, said: "There is substantially more consumer litigation," partly because consumers have more legal rights than they used to. "There is a whole host of new consumer laws," he said, citing legislation involving interest rates, warranties and credit. "Ten years ago, there wasn't a whole lot an aggrieved consumer could do except make a stink."

No one knows just when Americans started thinking of themselves as "consumers." The late President John F. Kennedy set up a Consumer Advisory Council in 1963 and listed four basic consumer rights: the right to be heard, the right to a choice, the right to be protected against unsafe products and the right to a response to a legitimate complaint.

Many people believe the real consumer drive started in 1966 with Ralph Nader and his book, "Unsafe at Any Speed." Nader's disclosure, at a Senate hearing, that General Motors Corp. had private detectives investigate him because of his crusade against the safety record of the Corvair, drew wide publicity and called attention to consumerism as a cause.

By 1971, "Nader's Raiders," as his followers were dubbed, had formed groups to study — and change — laws and regulations on everything from food additives to pollution controls. Today, Nader's organizations in Washington and Nader-spawned public interest research groups — PIRGS — across the country are involved in just about every facet of American life.

The individual citizen who wants to complain has more outlets for his anger. There are almost 50 complaint agencies for federal departments and more than 225 county and city consumer offices.

The government publishes a 39-page "Guide to Federal Consumer Services," with information on where to go with questions and complaints about everything from advertising to work regulations. The booklet is available free of charge from Consumer Information Center, Dept. 6, Pueblo, Colo., 81009.

On the business front, some 500 companies have consumer affairs units. The Better Business Bureau as expanded its complaint-handling mechanism, introducing an arbitration program that has grown from three cities in 1971 to about 100 today. And volunteer groups and news media "action line" programs are ready to tackle local problems.

McGuire said the surge in complaints "began long before the recession" that prompted concern over money. "It began when people learned there's a response."

Previously, he said, the East and West coasts were "the most fertile field

Estonia, officially the Estonian Soviet Socialist Republic, is one of 15 major administrative divisions of the Soviet Union. It covers an area of 17,410 square miles and its population in 1970 was 1,410,000. Its capital and largest city is Tallinn.

for complaints." In between was "a desert — or an oasis," depending on your viewpoint.

McGuire said that Middle America has joined the complaint parade. "It is no longer considered ill-mannered or unpleasant." People boast of their victories at cocktail parties.

Complaints still are most prevalent among the middle and upper-middle income groups, McGuire said. These are the people who have the knowledge, the time and the determination to complain.

"It hasn't trickled down to the ghetto yet," he said. "When it does, you'll have an avalanche of complaints" because there are so many people in-

The typical complainant on a nationwide basis, McGuire said, has two or more years of college, is over 30, "is more likely to be WASP than ethnic" and is in a managerial or semi-professional job.

If the item involved cost less than $100 — food, clothing or small appliances — the complainant is likely to be a woman, McGuire said. If it cost more than $100, the complainant is probably a man.

Consumer agencies say they are solving more problems than ever before.

The Office of Consumer Protection of the Wisconsin Department of Justice received 5,780 complaints in 1971 and recovered about $214,000 for consumers in court judgments and informal settlements.

Last year, the office received 14,678 complaints and recovered almost $675,000, an increase of about 154 per cent in the number of complaints and 215 per cent in the amount of money recovered.

Bob Tuttle, statistician for the National Council of Better Business Bureaus, said local groups received over 6¹2 million calls of all types last year. Thirteen per cent were complaints. The rest of the callers wanted information only.

The bureaus get two kinds of complaints: formal protests that are followed up and informal gripes on which no action is taken. The number of overall complaints increased steadily in the late 1960s and early 1970's, from 324,000 in 1966 to almost 1.5 million in

The trend was reversed in 1974 and by 1975 the number of complaints — formal and informal — was down to 846.000.

The decline does not necessarily mean that people are complaining less, although Tuttle said he hoped it indicated greater customer satisfaction. Other factors causing the decrease include the sales slump of 1975, Tuttle said. People bought less and therefore had fewer new products to complain

plaint outlets also contributes to a drop in the number of complaints received by any one agency.

What are people complaining about? The Office of Consumer Affairs, in a report on complaints to state and local agencies, said automobiles are the most common focus of dissatisfaction. Automobile gripes accounted for 18 per cent of all complaints in 1974. Home repairs were the second most common area of dissatisfaction, representing 11 per cent of all complaints in 1974.

The Better Business Bureaus statistics showed mail order businesses accounted for 15.3 per cent of all complaints in 1975. Automobiles were second with 5.9 per cent of all complaints.

12th Cancer Smorgasbord slated for Thursday night

There will be free food, entertainment and no admission charge. The public is invited without charge to enjoy the evening and select from the dozens of homemade desserts, some low-calorie for weight-watchers, prepared by local residents. All of this will be available at the 12th Dessert Smorgasbord to be held Thursday. April 22, at 7:30 p.m. in the Mahan Building at the Fayette County Fairground. The Bell Choir from First Presbyterian Church will be the en-

The purpose of the event is to "kick off" the local Cancer Crusade, and the dessert precedes the program. The annual smorgasbord was launched 12 years ago as a training session for volunteers who would commence soliciting the following day. It has since envolved into a public educational meeting during the past few years. A panel of physicians will be on hand for a question and answer period. Dr. Boyd from Wilmington will be guest Various clubs and organizations are encouraged to send delegations, or to hold their meetings following the smorgasbord. There will be recognition of the groups attending.

The Smorgasbord is sponsored by the Fayette County Unit, American Cancer Society. Co-chairmen for the 1976 event are Mrs. Larry Cruea and the Rev. Geraid Wheat.

Mrs. Melanie Creamer welcomed 18 members of the Women's Christian Fellowship of the Jeffersonville Church of Christ to her home. Mrs. Dorothea Kelley led devotions entitled "Happiness Is." She also told the ladies what happiness meant to her.

It was announced that material for the baptismal robes had been purchased, and volunteers, Mrs. Betty Patton, Mrs. Mary Avey, Mrs. Marlene Park, Mrs. Beverly Matthews and Mrs. Judy Duncan, will sew them. Mrs. Patton is chairman of purchasing flowers for the church lawn, and the planting date will be announced annual Mother-Daughter banquet will be May at 10 at 6:30 p.m. Each mother is to bring two salads, and tickets will be available from Mrs. Park, and should be picked up before May 5. There is no charge for the tickets. Mrs. Alice Long and Mrs. Duncan will be in charge of the program. Decorations will be done by Mrs. Avey, Mrs. Crabtree, Mrs. Duncan and Mrs. Patton. Mrs. Kelley will lead devotions.

Those present were Mrs. Chlorita Smith, Mrs. Bertha Little, Mrs. Pearle Steward, Mrs. Wilma Faulkner, Mrs. Diane Glore, Mrs. Marsha Edgington, Mrs. Lavern Zimmerman, Mrs. Bess Creamer, Mrs. Sandy Creamer, Mrs. Melanie Creamer, Mrs. Marlene Park, Mrs. Mary Avey, Mrs.Kelley, Mrs. Ruth Crabtree, Mrs. Betty Patton, Mrs. Judy Duncan, Mrs. Beverly Matthews and Mrs. Kaye McCray.

'Spring Gardening Day' planned at Kingwood Center

Kingwood Center will present its annual Spring Gardening Day on Sunday, April 25th from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. The special feature this year will be a House Plant Clinic. The public is invited to bring their ailing house plants and have the plant's problems analyzed by experts. Dr. Hugh Poole, Floriculturist from the Ohio Agricultural Extension Service and Mr. William Collins of the Matthai Botanic Gardens, University of Michigan will be available to give their attention to each plant. They will give demonstrations on proper cultural and grooming techniques of house plants. There will also be exhibits of house plants and the tools and supplies needed to maintain them.

Exhibits and demonstrations will provide information on home gardening. The public is invited to ask questions about individual garden problems. All events are free and open the public. Among the groups cooperating with this year's Spring Gardening Day are: The Ohio Agricultural Extension Service, The Mansfield Men's Garden Club, and the Kingwood Garden Center Committee. Special plant organizations helping this year are: Kingwood Herb Society, Kingwood Gesneriad Society, Kingwood Gesneriad Kingwood Chapter of the Indoor Light Gardening Society and the Kingwood Rose Society. The entire staff of Kingwood will be available to answer questions on gardening topics.

Persons representing these organizations will have exhibits or demonstrations on Cold Frames and Greenhouses, Gardening and Nature Books, Gesneriads, Growing and Using Herbs, Indoor Light Gardens, Mulching Materials and Methods, Nature Study, Pest Control, Plant Propagation, Planting Trees and Shrubs, Hanging Baskets, Roses in the Home Garden, Vegetable Gardening and the Youth Gardening Program. All of the above exhibits and demonstrations will be held in the Exhibit and Meeting Halls and the Workshop; all located across from the Greenhouses

Two films will be shown in the Assembly Room of Kingwood Hall. They are: "Kingwood Center, Beauty for All Seasons," and award-winning film on the year-around attractions of Kingwood. It will be shown at 1:30, 2:30 and 3:30 p.m. "How long is Alwasys-A Story of Trees," a film sponsored by the Pennsylvania Horticultural Society will be shown at 1, 2, 3 and 4 p.m.

Visitors to Spring Gardening Day will be able to enjoy a fine display of flowering plants, especially Kingwood's extensive collection of daffodils. The tulip display may be early this year due to the warm March and April weather. They couple be in Hospital Twig 14.

MR. AND MRS. TERRY L. STUCKEY

Marriage vows exchanged in Apostolic Christian Church

The Apostolic Christian Church, Washington C.H., was the setting for the wedding of Miss Tonda K. Smith and Mr. Terry L. Stuckey. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald R. Smith of Leashurg and Ars. Smith of Leesburg, and parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Robert Stuckey, of Sabina.

The Rev. Robert Barker, pastor of the church, officiated at the double ring ceremony at 2:30 p.m. and nuptial music was presented by Mrs. Nelanne

Donald Smith, father of the bride, escorted his daughter to the altar and on behalf of his wife and himself, gave Tonda in marriage. The bride wore a white floor length gown with an empire waistline. The sleeves of the gown were fitted and made of lace and ended in bridal points. Her accessories included a short veil with a white satin bow, a cross diamond necklace which was a present from the groom and heart shaped earrings.

Maid of honor was Miss Terry Flowers, Cedar Lake, Ind. She wore a red floor length gown with scooped neckline and long angel sleeves. A red velvet bow worn in her hair complimented her attire. Miss Flowers also wore a necklace, a gift from the bride, and carried a single red rose with offwhite streamers complementing the red and white color scheme.

The bridesmaid, Miss Debi Frump, Leesburg, wore a red floor length gown with a scooped neckline with short bell sleeves. A red velvet bow was worn in gift from the bride. Miss Frump carried a single off white rose with red

Miss Jackie Smith, sister of the bride, attended the guest book and she carried a single off white rose with red

Best man to the groom was Mr. Thomas South, Sabina, and Mr. Stuckey's usher was Mr. Theodore Rogers, Mt. Sterling. They wore light gray tuxedos.

Mother of the bride chose a gold and white street length dress with a matching jacket. Mother of the groom chose a light tan street length dress and both wore white carnations. The grandmother's wore red carnations.

A reception followed immediately after the ceremony in the basement of the church. The dining area was gayly decorated with red hearts and red and white streamers hung from the ceiling. The tables were covered with white tablecloths in red hearts. The bride's table held the traditional three tiered wedding cake decorated with red hearts at one end of the table and a standing heart surrounded with cupids at the other end. The guest tables were centered with a single red rose in a white vase

Hostesses for the reception were Mrs. Imogene Riley, Bloomingburg, and Mrs. Virginia Buck, Washington

The new Mrs. Stuckey graduated from Fairfield High School in 1974 and is presently employed by Bobb Bros., Inc. Mr. Stuckey graduated from Miami Trace High School in 1970 and is presently engaged in farming. The newlyweds are residing at 6618 Snowhill Rd., Washington C.H.

Jenny Adams Circle meets in home of Mrs. Jerry Coleman

Mrs. Jerry Coleman welcomed 13 members of the Jenny Adams Missionary Circle of First Baptist Church to her home for the April meeting. A dessert course was served preceding the business session. Mrs. Richard McLean and Mrs. Stella Baughn were assisting hostesses.

Mrs. Frank Reno, president, read
"Who Was He?" and each gave a thought or Scripture pertaining to Easter. John 16 was the basis for devotions given by Mrs. Olive

During the reports of the committees, Mrs. Irene Biebelhaus emphasized the importance of the love gift offerings. The 10 members attending the Women's Retreat held recently at Camp Kirkwood reported an interesting day there.

The Clinton Association meeting is planned for Saturday, April 24, in the Wilmington Baptist Church. All are urged to begin preparation for the "Care and Share" exhibit to be on display at the State Women's Con-ference planned at Capital University June 8, 9 and 10.

A package of vegetable seed is to be brought by each member to the next meeting, and these will be sent to Haiti. Mrs. Albert Caplinger presented the program in which Mrs. Coleman read an Easter poem by Helen Steiner Rice, tollowed by God's Tree. Mrs. Caplinger gave an Easter story based on early traditions of children in the home concerning the observance of religious holidays.

An interesting discussion followed and Mrs. John Baker was in charge of the closing.

Mrs. Reno will be hostess for the next meeting, May 13.

COLUMBUS -- Jeffrey L. Aldridge, a senior at East Union High School, is a winner of a 1976 Earthwatch Scholarship. State Superintendent of Public Instruction Martin W. Essex announced recently.

He is among four from Onio who received the nationally sponsored scientific research grants for gifted students. A total of 139 were awarded nationally

The Scholarship program is funded by private organizations and foun-dations and administered by Educational Expeditions International (EEI), of Belmont, Mass., in cooperation with the Council of State

Directors of Programs for the Gifted. Fifteen Ohio students were honored at the Ohio Board of Education meeting April 12 for being selected as state finalists in the program from among 120 applicants. They were chosen by a state-appointed committee of private citizens, leaders in the scientific community, and officials of the Ohio Department of Education.

WASHINGTON REPORT

6th District, Ohio

America's need for a stronger national defense was overwhelmingly endorsed by the House of Representatives last week when it passed a $33.4 billion arms authorization bill for the coming fiscal year. The bill, approved by a 298-to-52 vote margin, provides for the procurement of major weapons systems, plus all military research and development. It also authorizes increases in Active and

Reserve military personnel strengths.

Almost 30 per cent higher than the Fiscal Year 1976 authorization, the House bill provides about $23 billion for purchase for weapons and related equipment and $10.4 billion for research and development, testing and evaluation.

Although U.S. defense dollar expenditures have gradually increased in almost every recent year, inflation has actually reduced the budget's buying power, so that this year's budget will purchase 40 percent less goods and services than the 1968 defense budget.

Apparently many Congressional eyes are finally opening to the massive expansion in Soviet military capacityand the steady deterioration of our

Amendments aimed at reducing various arms programs were soundly beaten. They included attempts to delay production of the B-1 strategic bomber and to hold up money for a nuclear-powered aircraft carrier. The House also rejected attempts to cut back submarine construction, ban testing of advanced missile warheads and reduce our forces overseas by 47,000 men.

In recent years, Congress has allowed the defense budget to shrink to one-quarter of all federal spending. Only 15 years ago, it represented onehalf. The real growth in government spending has been in the non-defense

The Soviet Union spends the equivalent of about $60 billion a year for weapons development and purchase. That is roughly what we spent nine years ago. While the Soviets have boosted their weapons expenditures, ours have dropped to under $35 billion last year.

Russians' increased concentration and our slackening on weaponry and manpower have led to Soviet leads in many aspects of naval power, total

Fort Wayne police fight seen brewing.

FORT WAYNE, Ind. (AP) - One of five Fort Wayne policemen suspended for alleged neglect of duty claims the disciplinary action is a "union busting" tactic of the police administration.

"We're not going to sit back and take it," said Don F. Graham, president of Patrolmen's Association here.

He and four other officers- all members the union-were suspended for five days without pay after they refused to sign their names to tickets authorizing the municipal garage attendant to supply their cars with gasoline.

Those suspended include Graham, Charles H. Estep, and James D. both PBA assistant stewards; Leonard F. Hutson and Paul J. Venderley, both union members.

Graham said they declined to sign the tickets to protest the suspension of a sixth officer, William D. Fremion. He was suspended last Monday after he reportedly wrote "Mickey Mouse" instead of his own name on the gasoline

The gasoline ticket policy apparently stemmed from an order issued last January by transportation director Robert Johnson, who said it was designed to tighten control over billing procedures at the garage. He added that it was not devised to harrass the

CLEVELAND (AP)-United Rubber Workers President Peter Bommarito says he is "sincerely hopeful" that a final round of talks opening today with the Firestone Tire & Rubber Co. will produce a settlement before the union's 12:01 a.m. Wednesday strike deadline.

Talks with Firestone representatives were to start at 10 a.m., a URW spokesman said

Bommarito said after one of a series of weekend planning sessions with URW leaders that the union was concentrating on Firestone because that firm was "in a good position to make a settlement.

"Firestone produces about 39 per cent of the tires for Ford and 20 per cent for General Motors," Bommarito added. "Some of Firestone's stockpiles are depleted."

The URW president said Firestone's production had increased after a 1975 slump and that the firm had a good earnings forecast for the second quarter of 1976.

He said the URW's 15-member advisory committee, which includes representatives of locals at all the Big Four rubber companies, had authorized a strike against all four companies if a satisfactory agreement is not reached.

U.S. corporations cut back in Europe

LONDON (AP) - Some American corporations are cutting back operations in Europe because of rising costs, reduced profits and other factors, British business publications re-surveys by the weekly Economist and the daily Financial Times emphasize that there is no exodus yet. But they say a trend that began after World War II is being reversed.

The Economist reported that Goodyear Tire, White Motor, Union Carbide, American Motors and Eaton "have sold off investments in Europe or are cutting down on new investment." Litton Industries recently closed its two typewriter plants in Britain, and Chrysler threatened to shut down its ailing British operation until the Labor government bailed it

The Financial Times said that in West Germany, France and Italy, Singer, Westinghouse, W.R. Grace and General Foods "have abandoned or sold a variety of manufacturing and selling operations.

"The change can be exaggerated," said The Economist. "American corporations are not disenchanted with Western Europe, just less enchanted than they were in the 1950s and 1960s."

The Financial Times predicted "not a wholesale withdrawal from Europe but a changing relationship between Americans and European business which is probably healthy." But "the fact that some American companies are putting more emphasis on exports from the United States may make them more formidable competitors, not less," the paper said.

The Economist said 1976 will "perhaps see the beginning of the new epoch in multi-nationalism: retreating from the ownership of capital abroad in the face of creping socialism; exporting goods and knowhow instead of managers, businesses and bribes.

Columbus school lawsuit opens

COLUMBUS. Ohio (AP) — The NAACP challenges the policies of the Columbus school board in a federal suit starting today. The civil rights group acknowledges that the suit, like others in the state, is designed to pressure local schools into desegregating.

"We're saying that the schools are essentially segregated and that it wasn't serendipidity that they got that way," said Louis Lucas, lead counsel for the NAACP in the suit, opening before U.S. District Court Judge Robert Duncan.

Lucas characterizes the school plan board's plan of voluntary desegregation the socalled Columbus plan, as a "phony." "It is a phony freedom of choice plan that's minimal in effect and doesn't desegregate the schools," he said.

But though the school board itself is divided into a majority white faction that is waiting for a court decision and a black faction that seeks independent steps, officials say they expect no problems.

"I think Columbus can face any problem that comes," said John Ellis, school superintendent. "The board has attempted to meet this particular issue with a philosophy consistent with the Community groups have met to discuss the case. The Chamber of Commerce has formed a citizens committee to work with the school board no matter what the court decides. Religious leaders have also discussed the issues and efforts to support peaceful compliance with any desegregation plans.

But Mayor Tom Moody takes the position that "our schools are not segregated and they never have been segregated." At least, he says, there has never been any intention to segregate them.

In Columbus and other major cities he says, "the black-white issue is dead, except in the hearts of a few ex-

Lucas says he perceives a willingness to comply with desegregation guidelines, especially when he compares the situation with the difficulties plaguing court-ordered busing in Boston.

Ellis said the school board is committed to neighborhood schools, and that it has never consciously pursued a policy of racial segregation.

"The board does feel it has been meeting the issue," he said. "The board has favored the neighborhood school." But he says they also favor busing to improve racial balance—as long as the busing is voluntary.

"We did better than I thought," Beatty said of the Panthers second place finish at the Unioto Metric Meet Saturday. Miami Trace shared the runnerup spot with class A powerhouse Adena while Hillsboro won the championship.

The metric which is based on Olympic distances gives two trophies, one to the first place team and one to the second place finishers. But, Saturday three trophies were handed out as Adena tied the Panthers with a third-place finish in the final event of

Miami Trace held a 38-32 lead over Adena going into the final two events, the 3000 meter (two-mile) run and the 1600 meter (mile) relay. Adena took first in the 3000 meter to take a 39-38

The Panther relay team needed a first in the 1600 meter to secure an outright second-place finish-Hillsboro had already wrapped up first. The team of Dave Ritenour, Bruce Ervin, Art Schlichter and Greg Cobb took second giving them at least a tie. Adena took third edging out the Chesapeake relay team at the finish line, so it turned out to be a tie

Three records fell in the fifth annual metric meet and the Panthers set two

Dan Gifford shattered the high jump mark of 1.845 meters or 6'1" with a leap of 1.935 meters or 6'412". The Panther junior teamed with Art Schlichter's second-place, gave Miami Trace an early lead in the field events.

Despite Gifford's fine performance in the high jump pit, Bill Hanners turned in the Panthers' most outstanding individual performance.

He remained unbeaten in the distance races winning the 800 meters which is several yards shy of an 880yard run with a 2:04 clocking. However, it was Hanners performance in the 1500 meters that turned heads.

The 1500 meters is about 100 yards shy of a mile, and Hanners covered the distance in 4:19.0 taking four seconds off the previous meet record. According to Beatty, Hanners clocking for the mile at his rate of speed for the 1500 meters would have been around four and a half minutes.

Hanners was the Panthers only double winner Saturday. In fact, there was only one other double winner, Adena sprinter Clark Gilmore in the 100-meter and the 200-meter dashes.

The other meet record to fall was in the shot put as Unioto's Bob Matson snapped a 51'7" record by nearly two

Several Panthers picked up points along with Schlichter with second-place finishes. Cobb took second behind Gilmore in the 100 meter, while Ritenour helped out in the sprints with a second in the 400 meter. Miami Trace was without sprinter Bill Warnock, who didn't attend the meet and was suspended by Beatty.

Ervin took the Panthers other second place finish with a :42.2 clocking in the 300-meter low hurdles. The event which is a rarity on the high school level is nearly three times as far as the regular low hurdle event. Beatty attributed Ervins' strength to his strong showing.

Also picking up points for the Pan-thers were Rod Garringer in the pole vault, Ralph Fast in the shot, Terry Rodgers in the 1500-meter run and the 400-meter relay team of Lonnie Hixon, Brian Zurface, Ken Ward and Ervin. All were fifth place finishes.

The Panthers have four meets scheduled for this week with Logan at home Monday, Unioto at home Tuesday, Hillsboro on the road Thursday and back to Chillicothe on Saturday for the Unioto Relays:

Beatty is optomistic about the Panthers' chances in Saturday's relays which will feature the same field of ten teams plus a couple more including Washington C.H.

'We're getting more depth all the time," Beatty said adding that depth was the key to winning a relay meet.

He sees the meet coming down to the same three teams that were on top last Saturday-Hillsboro, Adena and Miami

Cincy drops to first-place tie

Modest Count downs Reds

CINCINNATI (AP)—What? modest streak in John (The Count) Montefusco? Well, sort of.

"I just wanted to make it through the second inning. I've never done that against this club," said the San Francisco Giants pitcher Sunday after teaming up with Gary Lavelle to fivehit the Cincinnati Reds for a 5-1 victory. Once he weathered the second, the brashness was back.

'I want to make the All-Star team so I had to show Sparky Anderson I'm worthy," said Montefusco, whose braggadoccio took the National League by storm last year.

He stirred up the natives at Riverfront Stadium last July when he predicted he would shutout the Reds and strike out slugger Johnny Bench four straight times.

It proved to be a lesson in humility. Bench walloped a mammoth home run and the Reds scored seven runs in two innings to rout Montefusco. But not before he tipped his hat to the crowd of was how many times was I going to strike out Bench. I wasn't making any predictions. I wanted the shutout-but quietly this time," said Montefusco, who earned rookie of the year pitching honors in the National League with a 15-9 record.

Montefusco said he settled down after an early flare of tempers between he and catcher Dave Rader "He was pushing me and pushing me. I finally blew my top. It was the best thing for me. I was upset when they scored the run," he said.

Montefusco, now 2-1, drove in a run with a sacrifice fly and added a double as the Giants won two of the three games against the defending world

"That guy is known as a character," said Manager Bill Rigney. " The word is right, but the useage is wrong. He has character.'

Joe Morgan, who took a .500 batting average into the game and was held hitless, saluted Montefusco as competitor," but begrudgingly added,

"All I heard for the last three days "I don't think he pitched well enough to hold us to one run.

Andy Messersmith came back to pitch against the Los Angeles Dodgers but it was Jimmy Wynn who came back to haunt them.

Messersmith, the celebrated free agent who jumped the Los Angeles ship and signed a million-dollar contract with the Atlanta Braves, made his 1976 pitching debut against his former teammates Sunday.

But while Messersmith was having control trouble, Wynn - another former Dodger - walloped a three-run homer to help the Braves beat Los

By The Associated Press Catfish Hunter was rolling along, staring his second victory of the season in the face, when two light-hitting Twins derailed the New York Yankees' ace right-hander.

"I give up lot of guys' first home runs," Hunter sighed. "I'm used to it. It used to get me mad, but you can't do anything about it except try and get the next guy out.'

The Yankees were leading 4-2 in the top of the ninth and Hunter had limited the Minnesota Twins to just five hits. But that was before Lyman Bostock and Butch Wynegar came to the plate.

Larry Hisle started the Twins' rally with a one-out single. Hunter then got a two-strike count on Bostock, who had not hit a home run in his 102 previous major league games.

'Munson (catcher Thurman) wanted the next pitch in the dirt," Hunter said, 'but I reared back and tried to put a little extra on a breaking ball and threw it right down the middle.'

Gary Koch claims Tallahassee victory

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) - "I've achieved one of my long-range goals," exclaimed tour rookie Gary Koch after outplaying five-year veteran John Mahaffey to claim $15,000 first-place money in the $80,000 Tallahassee Open.

'It's difficult to imagine that I could have said at the first of the year that I'd win a golf tournament this season, but I've done it," the former University of Florida star added after winning by a single stroke Sunday.

Koch had three birdies and a bogey on the 7,124-yard Killearn Golf and Country Club layout for a two-underpar 70 in the final round, while Mahaffey could do no better than even par.

"The pro tour's different from college," said Koch, who won eight collegiate tournaments. "You're in a big league field of 144 and there are 125 guys capable of winning each tour-nament. In college golf, maybe there are 25 guys.

Koch, who has earned $21,752 by winning money in eight of the nine events he's entered, sank a six-foot par putt on the 18th hole, knowing he would be forced into a playoff if he missed. "I knew he'd be tough to beat," said play, and I may not."

Koch, a 23-year-old from Temple Terrace, Fla.

Mahaffey, 27, of Houston, was eighth on last year's money list with $141,471 and is trying hard to lose a runner-up image. He has won only one Professional Golf Association title, the 1973 Sahara Invitational.

Mahaffey, who earned $9,120, was a stroke behind Bob Eastwood entering the day. Eastwood, who led the first three rounds and was two shots ahead of Koch starting play at 11 under par, came home with a five-over 77 to tie Wally Armstrong, Joe Porter and Ron Cerrudo for fifth place at 282.

Sharing third place for $4,720 each were Vic Regalado and Tom Storey at 280. Regalado closed with a 68 and

Storey a 69.

Arnold Palmer closed with his best round, a 69, to finish at four-under 288, but despite the strong finish said he still plans to take time off from the tour grind in an effort to help his faltering

"I'd played a lot this year, eight weeks out of nine," said the 46-year-old self-styled elder statesman of the pro golf tour. "I was kinda tired and I wasn't too hot about playing.

But the challenge - and the money, definitely the money - of the prestigious $225,000 event made the old pro reconsider.

'Last week at the Masters I decided it was silly. Here I am playing golf for a living and they're putting up a $225,000 pot for only 22 fellows to shoot at, and I can get $4,347 even if I'm last.'

Homecourt no advantage in playoffs

By ALEX SACHARE

AP Sports Writer Remember the home-court advantage, that much-ballyhooed edge for which various National Basketball Association teams scratched and clawed at each other through the final weeks of the regular season?
Well, the Philadelphia 76ers and

Milwaukee Bucks will have all summer to try and find out where it went.

Both teams were eliminated from the NBA playoffs Sunday in the type of games in which the home-court advantage is supposed to be most prominent -- close, hard-fought, pressure-packed contests, where everything is on the line. Both were playing before enthusiastic crowds at their home arenas-and both were

Fight mars Nets win

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) - The New York Nets won more than just the fourth game of their American Basketball Association playoff series against the Spurs Sunday

They won the fight, said San Antonio Coach Bob Bass.

In both locker rooms after the game, talk centered more on the second period fight which emptied both benches than on the game, won by the Nets 110-108, which evened the series 2-2.

San Antonio's George Karl squared off against New York's Brian Taylor in the main event.

'Taylor just hit the hell out of Karl," said Bass, who several times has complained the games in this playoff series are too physical. "We lost the fight, too.

Before Taylor and Karl could be separated, players from both teams had entered other arm-swinging skirmishes across the court.

Police, coaches and referees eventually cleared the floor.

The best-of-seven semifinal series resumes tonight in Uniondale, N.Y. The other semifinal set, between Denver and Kentucky, resumes tonight in Louisville, with the clubs tied 1-1.

Holman takes bowling tourney

AKRON, Ohio (AP) - "All I was thinking of was to make sure my hands were dry, then throw a good shot, get it in there," said Marshall Holman, reconting the final frame of the game that gave him the Tournament of Champions bowling title.

'I yanked the ball and it hit heavy on the headpin and I got a break when only the four-seven stayed up," said Holman, who needed only a share to defeat veteran Billy hardwick and claim the $25,000 first prize Saturday.

The top prize increased Holman's 1976 earnings to $36,615, third highest on the PBA tour. Second place money of $14,000 gave Hardwick, of Louisville.

NEW YORK (AP) - I fear the White House is swamped today by outraged telegrams and inquiries from the Spanish government. And Russia must

Spanish government. And Russia must be wondering if the White House has, well, "gone bananas."
You see, Ron Nessen, President Ford's spokesman, appeared on NBC's late-night "Saturday Night" comedy show to host proceedings that were rowdy and harrumph, harrumph, often tasteless in the best "Saturday Night" tradition.

Not only that, Ford, appearing in film clips, introduced Nessen and the show and popped up in its "Update" news segment to say, "Good evening. I'm Gerald Ford and you're not."

Shortly after that, former NBC newsman Nessen appeared in a skit in which he played a spokesman for the late Generalissimo Franco of Spain.

He told a reporter that "the generalissimo's condition is still very grave, but - and I would like to emphasize this — it is stable at this time."
Pressed to admit that Franco was quite dead, he added, "I didn't say that he wasn't dead. I just said he was stable."

Nessen, on leave from the White House, if not his senses, for the show, proved an adept monologuist and skit actor, doing particularly well in an Oval Office skit in which actor Chevy Chase played President Ford.

Despite Nessen's presence, Ford got no mercy. The skit poked fun at his alleged clumsiness, questioned his intelligence and even obliquely brought up his controversial pardon of former President Richard Nixon.

In asking permission to appear on "Saturday Night," Nessen said it would show that Ford has a sense of humor. He also noted that Nixon went on "Laugh-In" in 1968 to say "sock it to me" and, said Nessen, "That may have made the difference in the election.'

Chase-Ford "But he won, didn't he?" Told yes, Chase-Ford observed: "Well, he was funny then and he's funny now. . . That's why I gave him a

As Chase-Ford bumped and stumbled about the office, stapled his ear and put on his old football helmet, Nessen gave him the next morning's schedule: " At 7:05 you break the water glass by the sink ... then at 7:12 you tumble down the stairs...

Nessen wisely stayed out of the more outrageous acts, but he did do a few more press secretary skits, appearing in one in a toga to make this announcement for his boss, Oedipus, the lad who liked his mommy: "From now on the queen mother will be referred to as the queen wife. ..."

At the start of his show-opening monologue, Nessen halted to take a bogus collect call from Ford, whom he was joshing at the time.

"You heard the monologue?" Nessen asked. "And you had it explained to you? Betty thinks it's funny? Good. I'm

Leave us hope not. Last Saturday's show was good, bizarre fun and showed the man in the White House might be a good deal hipper than anyone ever

And any controversy it caused probably will be overshadowed when an even more prominent White House figure hosts next week's snow late Millard Fillmore.

SPECIAL NOTICE

In providing the necessary improvement now being made with the Mahan Building on the Fayette County Fairgrounds, a request is now being made.

Over the years, this facility has been well accepted by the donors and the donees as for the use intended. In giving this building a bit of class or distinction, maybe a touch of Williamsburg style, which has been needed, We solicit your ideas on the lighting of the entranceway. In fact, we are asking a donation from a person or organization for a chandelier or chandeliers to light our front entranceway to the Mahan Building. We ask this be in keeping with the style and have the Fair Board approval, before June 1.

A drive by or visit to this area, may help the cause. Then

Some deals are much more volatile than others. For example, take this one from the match between Italy and New Zealand during the 1972 World

Bridge Olympiad. The bidding at the first table went as shown. Pabis Ticci and D'Alelio were North-South for Italy, and West (Frank Lu) led a club against five spades doubled. East (John Wignall) found the winning defense when he took the club with the ace and played a diamond at trick two!

West ruffed and cashed the king of hearts, so D'Alelio, unex-pectedly, went down one.

The outcome was altogether different when New Zealand sat North-South. The bidding went:

diamonds. Declarer ruffed, played a spade, and made twelve tricks after ruffing a spade in dummy and drawing trumps. Italy thus gained 1,330 points on one deal. Turkey did even better on the hand in its match against Brazil. They made five spades doubled (650 points) at one table, and six hearts doubled (1,660 points) at the other table. Similarly, Jamaica gained

1,250 points by making five clubs at one table and five spades doubled at the other table.

There were some other matches in which a team scored game or slam with both the North-South cards and the East-West cards. The deal dramatically confirms the sound theory that when both sides are competing fiercely with distributional hands it's better to bid one more when in doubt and be willing to suffer a small loss, than to pass or double too soon and risk a large

- Traveling northwest on U.S. 35, the front steering broke in a car driven by Doris L. Sheets, 18, of Xenia, causing the car to run off the right side of the roadway, just southeast of the Boyd Road. The car went into a ditch and struck a rod of fence, incurring slight damage in the process.

Arch Moore trial opens

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP)-The fifth-floor courtroom in the federal building here will probably be crowded beginning Tuesday for the federal extortion trial of Gov. Arch A. Moore Jr., but there will be no extraordinary security measures.

James McWhorter, clerk of U.S. District Court, said Judges Dennis Knapp and Joseph Young discussed whether to have metal detectors or extra security for the trial, but decided

Knapp is the senior judge for the southern district of West Virginia and Young, from Baltimore, is presiding at the trial because West Virginia's federal judges disqualified themselves.

"Neither of them feel there's anything about the type of person involved in this thing that would make anyone a security risk," McWhorter

In the trials last year of the Rev. Marvin Horan and others for conspiracy to bomb schools during the Kanawha County textbook protest, the court employed extra security personnel and metal detectors similar to those used at airports.

Moore and a former aide, William Loy, are charged with conspiracy to extort $25,000 from Theodore R. Price, former president of Diversified Mountaineer Corp., in 1972.
